TWO DIE IN CONNEAUT FIRE

BRANCH DETROIT BANK ROBBED OF $50,000

Alice Longworth Says

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 1.—In spite of the fact that Governor Landon, until his recent statement, has been kept so quiet that there had begun to be a faint doubt as to whether he really exists, his delegate strength continues to pile up.

If he gets the nomination it may prove to have been good strategy to keep his visibility low. He would then emerge from the silences with all the freshness of novelty, the issues, let us hope, clearly expressed in the platform, and a minimum of the animosities that are aroused by a personal pre-convention campaign.

The Landon victory in Massachusetts has spiked rumors that his pace was lagging, and that other candidacies were being considered by the leaders. The anti-Landon talk comes largely from politicians who like to feel that they are important and powerful. Nothing suits them less than to have the nominee a certainty in advance. That only leaves them the platform about which to exercise their talent for the "deals" which gratify their self esteem.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

There is a vast difference between the weather we are having today and that of a year ago. The lowest temperature during the past 24 hours was three degrees warmer than the highest temperature on the same date a year ago. In fact the first week of May last year was extremely chilly.

Both James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce, who played Hamlet and Ophelia with their Shakespearean company last night in the Senior high school, were in New Castle about ten years ago in support of the late Robert B. Mantell. Mantell performed here shortly before his death.

Some of the parking signs attached to curb light poles are in need of some attention. They are slipping from their original moorings and a considerable number are out of alignment.

Today's weather has served to give the baseball bug a big impetus. With a few days of this kind of weather baseball will be in full swing on all diamonds in the city and county.

* * *

Some extensive resurfacing work is being done on the East Washington street paving. It will be a much appreciated improvement when completed by the State Highway Department.

Persons who are apprised speeding or violating other automobile laws of the city are receiving letters from the mayor's office, notifying them of the offense and advising them to obey the law, according to reports.

Young Pa Newc has received a number of telephone calls during the past few days in which he has been informed that rhubarb plants have developed and are ready for use. This is not unusual as the perennial is among the first plants to develop during the spring season.

Bandits Rob Detroit Bank This Morning

Trio Armed With Machine Guns Secure $50,000 In Daring Daylight Holdup

FIRE SHOT TO COW CUSTOMERS

Greatest Man-Hunt In Michigan In Months Is On As Police Trail Suspects

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

MONROE, Mich., May 1—The five bandits who held up and robbed a Detroit bank of $50,000 this morning were reported trapped by state police on the Detroit-Monroe-Toledo road near here today, less than two hours after the bank had been looted. Their capture was expected momentarily.

Three Bandits

Detroit, May 1.—Three machine-gun bandits today invaded a branch bank of the Detroit Savings bank, fired one shot to cow a crowd of customers, and escaped with $50,000 in loot in one of the most daring daylight holdups in Michigan in years.

A fourth bandit remained in a high-powered stream-lined car, and drove the getaway car after the three desperadoes ran from the bank and joined him. Their car was reported headed toward Toledo.

The bank holdup was the immediate signal for one of the greatest manhunts in Michigan in months. It gave police the first opportunity to determine the effectiveness of their recently planned tri-state road blockade.

Patrol Highways

Police immediately started to patrol more than 300 roads, particularly highways leading into Ohio and Indiana.

The three bandits, according to A. W. George, the branch bank manager, invaded the bank during the morning rush hour.

They fired a shot at a girl customer, he said, but she was not hit.

George, the bank manager, in describing the actual holdup said:

"There were about 20 customers in the bank at the time. About four of them were women.

"The three bandits came into the bank, one of them waving a machine gun, and he shouted 'Everybody lie down on the floor.'

"Everybody got down.

"In the meantime, one of the bandits fired a shot with a revolver and hollered to the cashier to 'open up.' A girl screamed. At first it was believed she was struck by the bullet but later it was found she escaped unharmed.

"The cashier stepped from behind his cage, let the desperado in through a door. The bandit scooped up the $50,000."

Although George estimated the loot at $50,000, auditors from the main bank were dispatched to the branch office to make a thorough check.

Business Above Level Of 1935

Business Activity In State Has Been Well Sustained

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—Business activity in Pennsylvania as a whole has been well sustained and the current level continues substantially above that of 1935, the Philadelphia Federal Reserve bank reported today.

"Trade and industry in those areas which were exposed to recent floods have been recovering swiftly and effectively with respect to the supply and production of goods for spring and summer requirements," the report said. It pointed out further that the output of manufacturers and crude oil showed "a larger than usual gain" between February and March, while coal production "declined sharply".

"Productive activity in the aggregate continued to exceed that of a year ago," the review continued: "The average rate of industrial output also was five per cent higher in the first quarter this year than last and was the largest for that period since 1931."

Tornado Strikes Mid-West District

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

FAIRMONT, Minn., May 1.—A swath a mile wide and twisting 40 miles through the rich farming district of northern Iowa and southern Minnesota was combed today for additional victims of the howling tornado which late yesterday took at least three lives and caused injuries to more than 50 others.

The path of the twister was strippled with leveled farm dwellings and buildings and dead livestock.

Ray Schelmeski, 19, was crushed to death when a barn collapsed, seven miles south of here. George Hoskins, a farmhand, was killed on a farm near Milford, Iowa. Mrs. Julius Heuer was killed on her farm near Everly, Iowa.

Many of the injured were brought to hospitals here in farm trucks. Ten persons were being treated in the hospital at Terrace Park, Iowa, where the howling wind made a shambles of two farm houses and a dozen summer cottages. At Estherville and Sheldon, Iowa, homes were damaged, trees uprooted and automobiles overturned.

It was feared the fatality list will grow as damage wreaked by the tornado is cleared away and communi-

Dillinger Emulator Faces Electric Chair

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, May 1—Al Brady, an Indiana farm boy who admittedly set out to fill the shoes of the late and unlamented John Dillinger, today stood in the shadow of the electric chair.

The 27-year old Brady and his 24 year old sweetheart, Margaret Barker, an attractive brunette, were handed over to Indianapolis police today.

Brady will be tried for the murder of police Sergt. Richard Rivers in Indianapolis Monday night, when he and members of his gang shot their way through a police ambush.

Brady was identified late yesterday by Miss Wanda Voorhees, 24, of Lima, O., as the leader of the gang that held up the Kay Jewelry store, in which she is employed, on Monday.

The young bandit readily admitted the holdup, and also told of other robberies in Lima, Greenville and Dayton, O.

He also admitted, police said, that his gang shot and killed Sergt. Rivers.

Held by Chicago police for questioning and for investigation to determine if they are fences for jewel thieves, are Jack Becker, 31, in whose room police found loot valued at $6,000, taken from the Lima jewelry store, his wife Laura, 21, and William Geftman, 26.

Haile Selassie Will Abandon Addis Ababa

Decides To Abandon His Capital Is Necessary To Save Civilian Population

ITALIAN TROOPS PREPARE TO ENTER

Small Force Of Ethiopians Not Likely To Halt Italian Triumph

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

ADDIS ABABA, May 1.—After dramatically deciding to abandon his capital if necessary to protect the civilian population, Emperor Haile Selassie tonight sent out two small forces to attempt to check the swift, steady advance of the Italians from the north.

Although convinced he has small chance of preventing the Italians from occupying Addis Ababa shortly, the emperor decided after conferring with foreign advisors at the imperial palace personally to resist to the death the aggressions of the fascist troops.

At 5:30 p. m. the Italians were only 30 miles from the gates of the city, and advance patrols were expected to appear any moment.

Not Expected To Halt Drive

Mainly for moral reasons, the emperor dispatched two small units northward to meet the invaders of Il Duce. If they fail to halt the drive, as observers expected, they would fall back to the west, rather than toward the capital.

The entire government, it is reported, is leaving tonight to set up a new war capital, most likely at Mendi, in Wallega Province, 280 miles west of Addis Ababa. Chaos reigns in Addis Ababa, with the panic-stricken population fleeing by thousands.

The Ethiopian detachments were ordered equipped with only five days' provisions. One force was under Ras Getachou, and was going to Tarmhaba in the direction of Debra Berhan, and the other, under Fukra Mariam, was headed Bellanca in return for their promise to drop an independent mayoralty campaign in behalf of former Mayor Frank X. Schwab. None of the alleged promises was fulfilled.

Rich, He Wooed Her As Reliefer

CONSTANCE WILLIAMS

Constance Williams, St. Joseph, Mo., beauty, thought her intended was just plain "Robert J. Hall", an itinerant relief worker. He courted her as such. But when they were married, the "Robert J. Hall" turned out to be Angus Gallagher, scion of a wealthy Youngstown, O., family and inheritor of a $250,000 fortune. It seems that "Hall" or Gallagher was unwilling to have the name of Gallagher tarnished by his luckless estate, so when he began life as a hobo he took the name of Hall. It was as Hall he won Miss Williams. —Central Press

May Day Is Quiet Event

Parades And Demonstrations Lacking In Violent Flare-Ups

(International News Service)

Massed millions the world over today staged one of the quietest May Day observances of recent years.

Both here and abroad, an International News Service survey showed, parades and other demonstrations were lacking in the violent flareups that have characterized the day for the past decade.

Europe, however, with a war scare hovering over the continent was tense as her celebration got under way. In every country, authorities were alert to quell any outbreak of violence.

Feature of European observance of May Day was an address by Chancellor Adolph Hitler, vigorously denying rumors Germany plans an invasion of Austria or Czecho-Slovakia, reiterating the Reich's peaceful aims and denouncing the rumore as the work of "the international clique which does not desire peace and which takes an interest in instigating one nation against the other."

Throughout Germany, joyousness was the keynote of the day's observance.

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., May 1.—Arthur Herbert Bigelow, 66, and William A. Kleeb, 52, both of Pittsburgh, were burned to death early today when fire razed their cottage here.

Donald J. MacDonald, also of Pittsburgh, escaped a similar fate by fleeing when the crackling flames awakened him.

The fire was believed to have started from a wood stove in the kitchen after the men retired at 11:30 last night. MacDonald, an auditor of the Conneaut Lake Company, said he was awakened by the flames and smoke and found the second floor hall a mass of flames with Bigelow's room already cut off. Kleeb slept on the first floor.

Unable To Approach Cottage

MacDonald dashed down the stairs and summoned Conneaut Lake firemen but the heat was so intense they were unable to approach the cottage to remove either of the men. Later, Meadville firemen, wearing smoke masks, recovered the bodies. Bigelow was found lying by an open window leading to the porch roof. Kleeb was in bed.

Bigelow was a son of Maurice Bigelow, an official of the Conneaut Lake Company. He leaves a wife and two sons. Kleeb leaves a wife and three daughters. The bodies were taken to the Byham funeral

DOUBLE GUARD ON WEISS

New Arrest In Wendel Case

Tavern Owner Is Now Being Hunted In Kidnaping Case

WEISS CHARGES DOUBLE CROSSING

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 1.—Harry Weiss, husky taxicab driver, was being guarded against a second suicide attempt today as police sought a New Jersey tavern keeper in the Paul H. Wendel kidnaping investigation.

The search for the tavern owner started immediately after the arrest of Sol Marcus, 33-year-old Trenton bookmaker, as an accessory to the abduction and torture of Wendel. Protesting his innocence of any criminal intent, Marcus named John Arbitell, operator of the American House bar in Trenton, as the man who ordered him to pay $150 to the wife of Murray Bleefeld, fugitive in the kidnaping.

To Fight Extradition

Marcus declared he would fight extradition to Brooklyn, where the kidnap probe is centered, thus leaving it up to Governor Harold Hoffman to sign extradition papers for a man allegedly involved in a plot to stay the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the murder of the Lindbergh baby.

A double guard was placed around Weiss' cell in the Raymond street jail in Brooklyn, as the hackman sobbed bitterly that he had been "double crossed." Last night, Weiss fashioned his shirt into a slip-noose and was trying to hang himself when his guards discovered him.

Hustled to another cell, the man, who said he had been promised a job as a New Jersey state trooper for assisting in the kidnaping, shrieked:

"I don't want to live! I don't want to live! I've been double-crossed."

home at Meadville. Dr. Luther J. King, the coroner, investigated and said there will probably be no inquest.

Rescue Efforts Fail

"We were all in bed and asleep," MacDonald said. "I was awakened by smoke and found my room and the upstairs filled with it.

"I shouted to the two other men and tried to get into Bigelow's room but was cut off by the flames.

"Then, I groped my way to the stairway, plunged down and found the first floor all ablaze. I ran outside and spread the alarm."

Clyde McAdoo, 30, superintendent of the Conneaut Lake Park police, made a determined effort to rescue the men but failed. He threw a coat around his head, placed a ladder against the cottage and entered through a second-story window. But, in the smoke and flames he was unable to find the men as he fought his way about. Finally, he was driven out by the heat.

Both Bigelow and Kleeb were well known in Pittsburgh.

War Not Over Says Selassie

(International News Service)

ADDIS ABABA, May 1.—Emperor Haile Selassie today refused to negotiate peace direct with Italy, as he dispatched the remnants of his imperial guard northward to meet the advancing Italians.

"I shall reorganize my army to fight again," he told the troops.

"The last ditch does not lie between the capital and Debra Bernhan (50 miles northeast of Addis Ababa).

"I'll never negotiate peace direct with the Italians in this country. Any negotiations can only be thru the League of Nations.

"I'll never leave my country of my own free will. The war is not over yet by a long way."

TORNADO STRIKES MID-WEST DISTRICT

cation through the stricken area is restored.

The tornado originated at Lake Okoboji, and roared northeasterly to southeast of Fairmont.

Mrs. Heuer, who was convalescing from delivery of a baby two weeks ago,, was in bed when the tornado approached. Her husband took her in his arms and was running across the farmyard to shelter when the storm struck with all its fury. The fierce wind snatched Mrs. Heuer from her husband's arms and hurled her to the ground with terrific force, killing her.

A nurse gained the shelter of a storm cellar with the new born babe.

John Brockman, a farmer was brought to a hospital here suffering from a broken back incurred when his house collapsed.

The storm, said by natives to have been the most severe in this territory in more than 20 years, had begun to blow itself out when it reached Blue Earth, Minn. The tornadic wind was still of sufficient force, however, to wreck a motion picture theatre.

along the Djirou road in the direction of Warra Hailu.

Thus each of the two main Italian forces pushing southward would encounter small Ethiopian forces. One of the Italian columns is the most heavily armed motorized army ever assembled.

The emperor conducted his discussions feverishly, having lost his impassivity. His face was drawn and haggard, as if he were worn out from his recent weeks of strenuous activity.

Plan To Enter Capital

With Italian Northern Army In Ethiopia, May 1.—The vanguard of the Italian motorized column marching upon Addis Ababa was reconstituted today to give all units an opportunity to participate in the honor of being the first to enter the Ethiopian capital.

The vanguard is now composed of grenadiers, Alpine troops, Black Shirts, artillery units, engineers and marines.

During the last 24 hours the column has been compelled to ford 22 rivers, some wide and deep, and this has delayed its progress somewhat. The most difficult terrain lies immediately ahead, but the engineers are confident all physical obstacles will be overcome.

The column has met no serious opposition, and there have been many friendly demonstrations by the Ethiopian natives.

Italy To Celebrate

Rome, May 1.—While all Italy prepared today to stage a mammoth rally celebrating a "solemn hour in the history of the regime"—the expected fall of Addis Ababa, wireless reports from the northern front today said one of the two motorized columns descending upon the Ethiopian capital had passed through Ankober, to the northeast.

The other Italian motorized column was variously reported from eight to 20 miles from its objective. Reports that Addis Ababa already had fallen were officially branded "premature."

Reports that Emperor Haile Selassie intends to continue to resist the Italian advance after occupation of Addis Ababa, which is now expected hourly, reached Rome in press dispatches which also stated the Negus was still in his capital as late as 4 p. m. yesterday, when the advancing Fascist legions were almost knocking at its gates.

These reports said the emperor intended to transfer the seat of his government elsewhere today.

The new Ethiopian capital, it was said, will be defended by whatever troops the Negus can raise.

Southern Front Has Rain

Heavy rains on the southern front were reported holding up Ras Nasibu's defeated troops, from whom the Italians yesterday snatched Sasa Baneh and the "Ethiopian Hindenburg line," driving on to Jijiga and opening a path for Harar and the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railway in one of the most crushing blows of the entire war.

In this region, the reports said, the roads between Gorahai and the front have become boggy and are slowing up all communications.

Engineers under the victorious General Rodolfo Graziani on the southern front were described as waist deep under torrential rains in an attempt to bridge the Giarer river north of Sasa Baneh, so that supplies can be brought to the advancing troops, whose aim is now to cut off Ethiopia from the rest of the world.

Drivers of the column which passed through Ankober have received orders to keep to the right of the road and to maintain regular distances between each unit to avoid accidents.

The leftside of the road is reserved for motorcycle patrols. Contact is maintained among the various units by radio.

Precautions Against Attack

All precautions are being taken against a possible attack, although the enemy is not in sight.

Advance guards are marching several miles ahead of the motorized column and ambulances are moving up with both columns. They are empty, however, because there has been no fighting. Airplanes are making repeated reconnaissance flights.

Reports from the southern front indicate General Frusci's column, which occupied Sasa Baneh, marched 35 miles in 12 hours and is now well beyond that fallen stronghold.

These troops were said to have encountered a violent storm, but despite the torrential rains Italian engineers were able to throw a 10 ton bridge across the Fafan river to enable the column to proceed.

General Nasi's column was described as moving to the right from Daggah Bur, and General Agostini's column was reported marching directly toward Daggah Bur.

General Graziani, who is slated to be elevated to the rank of marshal at conclusion of the war, left the Italian general headquarters last night, it was stated, and was present at today's operations, often mingling with the troops in the front line.

Advices from Djibouti stated forces gathered by Ethiopian commanders to defend Addis Ababa were "tending to disperse" in the face of the Italian advance.

According to these reports the Ethiopian government has abandoned Addis Ababa in favor of a point to the west, and only the minister of the interior and the military governor of the city remain there.

Working bees and drones are supposed to live from one to nine months, while the life of the queen bee is rarely more than three years.

Mellon Lawyers File Arguments

Mellon Seeks To Escape Paying Income Taxes Totaling $3,000,000

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 1.—Attorneys for Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary of the treasury, and U. S. Department of Revenue today filed with the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals in Washington some 2,000 pages of arguments summarizing their cases in the government's attempt to collect $3,000,000 from Mellon in income taxes and fraud penalties for the year 1931.

Attorney Frank J. Hogan, Mellon's counsel, filed a lengthly brief denying the white-haired financier had cheated the government of income taxes through fraudulent securities sales, mock gifts and through transfers of stock. In addition, Mellon again challenged the government's good faith in filing the action against him.

Attorneys for the treasury department also filed exhaustive summaries of their contentions and charges against the former ambassador to Great Britain.

The former Barbara Hutton Mdivani and her Danish nobleman husband are negotiating for the purchase of "St. Dunstan's," a mansion on the edge of the big park, formerly owned by Otto Kahn, New York banker, who loaned it to the British government during the World war.

Locate Jobs For Graduates

National Youth Administration Chief Makes Statement Today

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 1—The prime object of the National Youth Administration, Administrator Aubrey Williams told the 18th annual conference of the National Association of Deans and Advisors of Men today, is to aid young persons whose parents' incomes have been depleted to remain in school, and to find jobs for graduates.

Of what the NYA has been able to accomplish, Williams said.

"I speak with humility."

The NYA, he continued, has been able to aid 228,052 high school students to earn "a small income, which means to them the difference between remaining in school in decency and pride, or vainly competing in the labor market for their parents' jobs."

"With college aid," he continued, "we have been able to reach 121,517 undergraduates during this year, and over 5,000 graduate students."

Part time work, he said, has been offered to 210,000 young people who have finished their education, but have been unable to find other employment.

TAKING STOCK OF OURSELVES

TRAVELERS who spend any time at all in Europe and then return to the United States generally remark that in spite of six years of depression the United States continues to be the envy and admiration of the people of other countries. The fact that the lot of the average citizen in the United States is much better than the circumstances of people in other countries is generally recognized in other lands whether it is so recognized in the United States or not. Of course the great majority of Americans are patriotic citizens who have a proper love and regard for their own country and the unexampled opportunities which it affords them and their children.

There has been in the United States during the past few years, however, so much complaint and criticism, coming not only from the communists—who goodness knows are bad enough—but from a great many people who ought to know better. They prattle about the old canard that ten per cent of the people in America own ninety per cent of the wealth, that the rich are growing richer and the poor poorer, that the government owes everybody a living, a living which cannot be obtained without regimented economy and the "production for use instead of profit."

Yet what about this country of ours as compared with the rest of the world? Just where do we stand as likened to other people anyhow? By way of beginning it may be observed that the United States has only six per cent of the land area of the world and but seven per cent of the world's population. With that modest showing of land and numbers, however, we are sitting on top of the world so far as the comforts and conveniences, which our people enjoy, are concerned.

The proof is not hard to find. We have 32 per cent of the railroads, 58 per cent of the telephone and telegraph facilities, 76 per cent of the automobiles, one third of the world's radio broadcasting stations and 44 per cent of the world's broadcasting sets. Our people are better fed and better clothed than those of any other nation in the world. In no European nation do we see factories which are hemmed in by the automobiles of the working men who have driven to their work!

And the rich have not been growing richer while the poor were growing poorer. In 1850 in the United States, the worker's share of national income was 38 per cent. In 1929 it was 65 per cent and there has been no change in this respect during the depression. In 1930, no less than 14,000,000 families owned their own homes and since then the government—whether its efforts have been efficient or not—has been spending hundreds of millions in an effort to increase the number. More than half of the farmers of the United States own their own farms, and on more than half of the farms there are no mortgages, despite all the wailing about the poor farmer—some of which may be justified.

This is not all of it. Less than two years ago there were 38 million savings accounts in our banks and the number has increased since then. There were life insurance policies in force to the face value of seventy billions and the life insurance business is picking up. All this is in addition to the 88,000,000 industrial policies with a face value of over eighteen billions.

Compare this record with any you can find in Europe. Compare it with Soviet Russia the land where the leftist system is being worked out. Things are so bad there as to justify a real complaint but in "free Russia" one cannot complain without risking firing squad or exile to Siberia.

None of us is as well off as he would like to be. But before we "run down" Uncle Sam let us consider the state of peoples in other lands. The folks "over there" realize how much better off we are. That is why so many of them would like to come here if granted the opportunity.

THE DRUNKEN DRIVER

Legislation to close one of the loopholes through which many drunken drivers escape deserve punishment has been adopted by the New York senate and is awaiting consideration by the assembly. The bill would require arresting officers to make immediate tests for intoxication. Standards for the examination would be promulgated by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. Drivers refusing to submit would suffer revocation of their licenses. A companion bill would provide for finger-printing of drunken drivers.

Any measure calculated to secure the public safety against the drunken driver commends attention. Too often these "potential murderers" elude conviction because of the delay in getting them before a medical examiner. These frequently unavoidable delays give them time to sober up. Authorities complain that the word of arresting officers as to the sobriety of the accused is ignored more often than it is accepted when not supported by a doctor's testimony. Shrewd attorneys confuse policemen, who have no set rules to follow in determining the degree of the defendant's intoxication. The defect might be eliminated were the police tests conducted along legally established lines, as contemplated by the New York bill.

It may be argued that such a law would confer upon the police too much latitude; that they might use their power corruptly to extort bribes or to "frame" innocent persons. Were that argument to prevail what would become of law enforcement in all its ramifications? Fortunately for society most policemen are honest. Crooked politicians, rather than crooked cops, are generally responsible when law enforcement breaks down.

Twenty million pounds of horseshoes are manufactured in this country every year. This report forces upon us the conclusion that there must be some horses around somewhere.

Wonder if it ever occurs to the noted archaeologists that those who died a couple of thousand years ago are as much entitled to their rest in the grave as those who passed from life a month ago?

Next Comes The Fight.
New Jobs For Many.
Splitting A Diamond.
Young Russian Faces.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

LOS ANGELES, April 30.

GOV. LANDON'S victory in Massachusetts shows that the Republican party has chosen its 1936 candidate. This state, California, according to George G. Young, publisher of the Los Angeles Examiner, will be carried by Landon. The question of the candidate being settled, the fight alone remains.

Had Huey Long lived there would have been other questions; there might be some little complication if Dr. Townsend of the old age pension plan should organize an independent party, but the Congressional investigation will probably end that suggestion.

AMERICAN industry, criticized for not creating jobs for all out of work, goes ahead, hiring men as fast as it can find anything for them to do.

This city can testify that industry reaches out. On May 23, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, will open in this city a new assembly plant, with twelve acres of floor space, an enterprise that will employ many out of jobs now.

MEN CAN be employed only when the public has money to buy what they produce. Only a high grade miracle could change that.

FORD, CHRYSLER, Studebaker, Willys-Overland, already huge plants here, and big tire companies, Goodyear, Firestone, Goodrich, United States Rubber, had established plants ahead of the automobile companies, in this land of perfect roads and many automobiles.

IN ADDITION to the big new plant, Mr. Sloan's company has built an airplane factory at the Los Angeles municipal airport. The big Douglas factory, and the Kinner, Lookheed and Northup factories, all here, have $30,000,000 of orders on hand.

Industry is more than willing to hire men and produce goods as fast

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

GEOGRAPHY? TRY THIS!

There's a fine gentleman of the old military school living near a military post in the West (we'll call him Major so you won't know him) who likes to sit down with the young fellows and fire questions at them, questions perferably of a geographical nature.

If the young fellow can't answer the Major huffs and puffs, asks why the devil the young fellow ever went to college, and announces that nobody else gets educated any more; the younger generation is just a bunch of picnickers, huffs the Major.

One day a young fellow treed the Major on a minor point, which seldom happens. The Major moved in his big guns. "Now!" he said, "I'm going to ask you the sort of question you had to answer to get into West Point in MY day. . . .

"Now, young fella, you do this: Trace the 80th meridian of longitude from the North Pole to the South Pole! And be quick about it!" The young fella was groggy. That's a tough assignment—try it and see. Perfectly hopeless.

"I'm going to check up on you—I can do it in my head but I'll use a map to make sure," said the Major austerely. He got a great big map of the Western Hemisphere and unrolled it. He held it high so the young fella, across the Major's desk, couldn't see it.

The young fella barely restrained a cheer. On the opposite side of the Western Hemisphere (unknown to the Major) was a large Mercator projection. The young fella leaned forward in an attitude of deep thought, rolling his eyes upward as the Major peered triumphantly around the map at him. The young fella could read. . . .

"Now, lemme think," drawled the young fella. "The 80th meridan leaves the North Pole through Grand Land and Lincoln Land . . . just ticks Devon Island . . . crosses Baffin Island . . . down Foxe Channel and into Hudson Bay.

"Splits Abitibi Lake . . . and Lake Nipissing . . . just ticks Georgian Bay . . . touches New Castle, Pa. . . . touches Bassetts, Va., touches High Point, N. C. and Charleston, S. C., and lemme think . . . Palm Beach, Fla. . . .

"It splits Cuba . . . it splits Panama . . . it touches Guayquil, Ecuador . . . almost touches Juan Fernandez Island off Chile . . . and comes into the South Pole between Kemp Land and Wilhelm II Land. Am I about right Major?"

All this while the Major's eyes had been bulging more and more; he fought down his rising blood pressure. After a momentary struggle, the training of the old school got him back into the saddle.

"Whoof!" snorted the Major, throwing the Western Hemisphere far away. "I'm sick and tired of asking questions any schoolboy can answer! Huff! Puff! Whoof!"

The man doesn't live, by jingo, who can keep the Major treed!

Hints On Etiquette

When entertaining at a restaurant, the host or hostess should arrange beforehand for a table, and make plans to pay the check in such a way that guests know nothing about the financial transaction

At no time does glamor disappear so quickly as when the military man is deprived of his uniform.

We have bumped into quite a few sales tax places in the past few years and we have come to the conclusion that the sales tax is the only thing that will ever get this country out of the hole. Everybody has to pay it and the more you buy the more you pay. Lots of birds who never did pay any tax and never want to pay any are naturally opposed to any kind of a tax.

It is safe to say that the lady in Oklahoma City who recently broke 191 out of 200 targets in a clay pigeon tourney, has a home that is not disturbed by serious argument.

There is a great deal more success coming from real hard work than most people think there is. Ever see a hard worker panhandling? There are cases of course when people are sick or injured when they have to have help but most of the hard workers have a bit laid by for such occasions.

Good Taste

By FRANCINE MARKEL

By FRANCINE MARKEL

DEAR MISS MARKEL: Is it permissible, during a dance for a girl to leave the ballroom with a boy other than the one who brought her? Most of the boys in our set think that the girls should not leave but the girls think it is all right. But we notice that the girls who leave the ballroom for a considerable length of time do not have many future dates. Are we in the right or are the boys?

DOUBTFUL GIRLS.

Answer: When a man brings a girl to a dance, he does not like to feel that he has been used as a mere convenience—that she may gain entree—and that the other men, who come stag, may have the benefit of her companionship. Of course, he should not expect her to give her undivided attention to him dancing with him alone and ignoring every one else. But he will expect the girl whom he escorted to return to him between dances.

Girls who leave the ballroom and go off for a considerable length of time are certainly being rude to their escorts. And I do not blame these boys for not giving them a second invitation.

No Wheat Break Seen.
Surplus Remains Small.
Trains Are Speeded Up.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

WHEAT PRICES are not expected to drop far. Even if the spring wheat crop exceeds expectations, the United States still will not have a large salable surplus. In other words, there will be little overplus for foreign sale. The price will be governed by demand within the United States.

If Europe or Canada should have crop failures, prices would rise in the United States.

Such is the best available opinion.

SABOTAGE

Senator Royal Copeland of New York brought out a serious condition in answering charges made by Senator Lester J. Dickinson of Iowa that people had been forced to the extremity of eating dog food, which contained contaminated products. Senator Dickinson said the Roosevelt administration had failed to enforce the pure food and drug act.

Senator Copeland denied the charge, but asserted that opponents of pure food and drug inspection had caused a cutting off of funds to such an extent that the government could not properly inspect foods and drugs any more. It was only a year or two ago that present inspection was declared wholly inadequate to protect the health of the people, and an effort was made to pass a new bill with teeth in it. That bill was sabotaged, largely by Republican opposition, in a fight in which large sums were spent by private interests.

FASTER, YET FASTER

Railroads quietly have speeded important trains, particularly in the area between Chicago and New York. Schedules have improved nearly 30 per cent in five years. Air and bus competition has caused this.

Although old equipment has been made over, old type cars will have to give way gradually to the new lightweight steel type. Both the public and operating officials demand this—but whence will come the money.

Railroads struck a bad low during the last Christmas season and the subsequent record-breaking cold. They did not have sufficient good equipment—and the public registered its disapproval.

Since then, operating conditions have been improved mightily—but the public, even with reduced rates, seeks new-style equipment.

BUILDING OPERATIONS

Building permits are registering the largest increases in six years.

Largest sums being spent for new structures are in these cities: New York, Los Angeles, Detroit, Washington, Chicago, Cleveland and Pittsburgh. In the last-named place the main item was a permit for a $15,000,000 steel mill.

Los Angeles consistently has kept its place next to New York for the last few years. Detroit and Cleveland have been making spurts recently—chiefly because of new residences. Chicago's suburbs also are gaining.

All Of Us

IS DISCOURAGEMENT A DISEASE?

THE LONGER I live—and there are times when I feel incredibly ancient—the more convinced I am that discouragement is a disease.

Something like a headache or a cold or an affliction like a pain in the neck.

I'm not sure that it comes from a germ; that is, the kind of germ that scientists grow in a culture and smear on a slide and peer at through a microscope.

But I do believe it's some kind of germ that is just as virulent as a physical germ and that multiplies enormously in the proper kind of culture—and can be killed by the proper kind of treatment.

Some men and women seem to be born with a natural, sturdy resistance to discouragement, while others seem born with a tendency to the blues.

The naturally cheerful ones can be exposed to a host of misfortune and agony and grief without catching anything at all. They are not callous—in fact, they may be tenderly sympathetic toward the ills of their fellows—but they are equipped with spiritual self-defense that is invulnerable . . . But there are those others, poor devils, who catch every misery that creeps or flies or walks. Over-sensitive, highly imaginative, self-pitying, they are a fertile field for woe.

This happens because they are self-centered. Everybody is that, to a certain extent, but they are abnormally so. Some human beings catch a cold whenever they sit in a draft of cold air; the miserable ones live in a continuous draft of worry, apprehension and timidity . . No wonder they get the blues. No wonder they find it so difficult to throw off those persisting attacks of discouragement.

I guess I ought to know . . . I'm a little that way myself.

COURTESY ON DEPARTURE

To host and hostess at the door,
Handshaking as we go,
'Tis courtesy to say once more
What they must surely know:
"Good bye! It was so good of you.
Your party was sublime!
We've both enjoyed the evening through.
We've had a blorious time!"

We stay a moment in the hall
Before we take the road
To thank our gracious friends for all
The pleasure they've bestowed,
And as we turn to go away
We hear the stair clock chime
"Good bye! Good bye!" again we say:
We've had a glorious time!"

So from the host that's known as Life
When I at last depart,
Forgetting all the care and strife
And every sting and smart,
Let me in that last hour ere I
Set out for realms sublime
Shake hands with life and say:
"Good bye!
I've had a glorious time!"

Today's Yesterdays—May 1, 1638. Charles I issued a decree forbidding emigration of Puritans from England to the colony in Massachusetts, "a breeding place of nonconformists and rebels."

The decree caused the detention of a ship on which Oliver Cromwell was to sail. So Cromwell stayed home, and in the course of events became the man who caused Charles' execution and became his successor!

May 1, 1672—Joseph Addison was born. After he wrote the Sir Roger de Coverly papers, the Dr. Johnson said, "Whoever wishes to attain an English style, familiar but not coarse, and elegant but not ostentatious, must give his days and nights to volumes of Addison."

100 Years Ago Today—The first steamship to round the Horn, the first steamship in the Pacific, the Beaver, arrived at Victoria, B. C., 168 days from London. Sailing ships usually made the voyage in faster times.

50 Years Ago Today—The 8-hour day was established as the standard by organized labor. The federation of trades unions which met in Washington the previous December, had adopted a resolution declaring that beginning May 1, 1886, eight hours would constitute a day's work.

May 1, 1898—The squadron commanded by Commodore George Dewey, defeated a Spanish squadron that was no match for it, in the battle of Manila Bay, and established American naval power in the Pacific.

May 1, 1924—Adolph Hitler was sentenced to prison in Germany, for preaching Nazism.

It's True—There is an extraordinary similiarity between the sign languages of Amerindians, Australians aborigines and deaf mutes.

Life is no more perilous today than it was in ancient times. Comparative statistics show that whereas suicides and accidents cause 9.5 per cent of today's population to die violently, an estimated 12 per cent died violently in ancient Greece and Rome.

British Vessel Reported Fired Upon, In Harbor

(International News Service)

DUBLIN, May 1.—Police today investigated reports that shots have been fired at the British destroyer Tenedos, lying in Cork harbor.

Meanwhile, 27 of the 50 prominent Republicans arrested in the Cork and waterfront areas were here under heavy guard. Three of the prisoners, struggling violently, were driven off to Arbour Hill military prison.

The arrests were regarded as the result of a split between President Eamonn De Valera and Republican extremists.

Two Pittsburgh Men Suicide

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 1.—Suicide was blamed by police today for the death of Walter Staley, 30, found dead in the basement of his home here with a bullet through his head. Relatives could put forth no reason for his act.

Friends were also unable to account for the suicide of Paul Sabol, 45, who jumped 110 feet from Rankin bridge into the Monongahela river.

Report Selassie Seeks Agreement

London Hears Rumors Of Dramatic Eleventh Hour Attempt

CONFIRMATION OF REPORTS LACKING

(International News Service)

LONDON, May 1.—Reports were heard in London today that Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, his capital facing occupation by Fascist legions, is making a dramatic eleventh-hour attempt to reach an agreement with Premier Mussolini. These reports could not be confirmed.

According to these reports the Negus realizes "everything is lost" but thinks Mussolini might consider a scheme which would enable Italy to "satisfy outside opinion" while still absorbing Ethiopia for Italy.

Selassie is attempting, through secret emissaries, to propose Italian control of Ethiopia similar to Britain's rule in Egypt, according to this report.

Under the Negus' reported plan, he would remain emperor of Ethiopia, but an Italian high commissioner would run the country. Italy would control Ethiopia's economic and military machinery and Italian forces would police the country.

The sculptors of classic and medieval times practiced the custom of coloring their marbles. In the case of sculpture in the grand style, polychromy was not abolished from sculpture until Michelangelo's day.

Contributions For Flood Relief Are Still Coming In

Additional Amounts Are Reported By Lawrence County Chapter Today

Contributions for flood relief are still being received by the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, several additional contributions having been received in the past few days.

An additional sum of $8.37 was received from officers of New Castle Lodge of Elks, from the benefit party staged last month.

Kasimir Pulaski Lodge, through president Michael Mateja, sent in a check for $25. A check for $20.18 was received from the Eintracht Singing Society, and a check for $10 was received from Lawrence Chapter, D. A. R.

War Memorial Had Wrong Inscription

(International News Service)

DEDHAM, Mass., May 1. — Six years ago this town erected a $12,000 war memorial—to Imperial Germany.

John W. Burke, war veteran and American Legion member, read the Latin inscription, "Pax Victis," and stormed the annual town meeting with the demand the inscription be changed to "Pax Victoribus," meaning "peace to the victors."

The town voted $409 to change the inscription, which for six years read "Peace to the conquered."

McMullen Faces Two-Year Term

Former Chief Of Patents Division Faces Term And Fine Of $10,000

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Convicted by a jury of illegally accepting fees from a private corporation, Col. Joseph I. McMullen today faced a maximum sentence of two years in prison and a fine of $10,000. He formerly was chief of the patents division of the judge advocate general's office of the war department.

He was released under bail for sentence next week. William Leahy, his counsel, stated a new trial will be sought.

McMullen admitted accepting $1,500 from the American Manganese corporation, but testified the payment "was a retainer for future services."

Plan Band Festival On College Campus

The third annual Pennsylvania All-State Band festival will be held at Indiana, Pa., on May 15 and 16 under the sponsorship of the Pennsylvania School Music association. Two hundred members of high school bands representing 62 schools will participate. New Castle will not be represented, senior high school officials said today.

STUDY the lean, hard faces of young Russian soldiers, all born since Lenin, Stalin, Karl Marx and Communism took charge. You see them in newspaper photographs and moving pictures.

These young Russian fighters, numbering more than a million under arms, well uniformed, well equipped, looking like a collection of prize fighters "in training," have been brought up in the belief that there is nothing of importance except a Marxian social theory. That will pass and vanish as thousands of theories have done. They have been taught that the world is an accident, a "fortuitous concourse of atoms."

Shakespearean Dramas Brought To New Castle By Repertoire Company

Shakespeare, when trusted to trained, understanding players, is today as for generations past, the very best of "good theater."

Two of the bard's most popular plays, "The Merchant of Venice" and "Hamlet," were presented Thursday afternoon and evening respectively in the New Castle senior high school auditorium by the James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce Company of New York City. The Shakespearean company has been making a tour of United States in repertoire, and was brought here by the English Department of the senior high school, of which Miss Frances McClaren is head.

That New Castle is still alive to the better things in theater is evidenced by the way both productions were received. Appreciative audiences listened attentively and gave generous applause. The performers, all experienced people of high professional standing, were consistently fine in their parts and deserve all the nice things critics have been writing about them.

James Hendrickson, who played Shylock and the tragic Hamlet with such depth of feeling, served his apprenticeship with the late Robert B. Mantell, who New Castle had the pleasure of seeing about ten years ago, and with Fritz Leiber. He had excellent support from Miss Bruce, James Reach, Frank Howson, MacGregor Gibb, Miss Hilda Manning, Miss Antonia Grey, David Auerbach, Frederick Thurston, John Carpenter, Martin Wells and others.

Few, if any, of the persons in attendance were aware of the fact that a number of students of the school were taking active parts in several of the scenes. They were dressed in beautiful costumes patterned after the style of that day, and they were "made up" so well that it was exceedingly difficult to distinguish them from the professional players.

Those who were chosen by Miss Clara Hartsuff, dramatics director of the school, included; Geraldine Getty who played the part of Portia in the recent class play, "The Closed Door", Mary Ellen Henderson, Elizabeth Slaver, Jack Ligo, Reid Shinner, and Paul Carlisle.

This group was featured in the carnival scene in "The Merchant of Venice" and in the throne room scene in "Hamlet". Several members of the group were in various other scenes also.

In addition to acting another group of students who deserve just as much praise were those students who took charge of the dressing rooms assisting the actors in any way possible, and those who handled the scenery and lighting effect on the stage. These people were: Mary Irene Taylor, Peggy England, Paul Rumbaugh, Clayton Cramer, Bob Brest, Chester Shearer, Carmen DeLorenzo, and Dale Grove, who served as head of the stage crew.

Don't peel new and tender stalks of rhubarb before cooking them. Only the old and tough stalks need peeling.

HE REACHES THE PINNACLE ...OF HUMOR, PATHOS AND ROMANCE!

A story with a heart-sock that runs the gamut of glee!

SECRETARY ICKES IS DEMOCRAT'S PROBLEM

Can He Attend Party Session?

Ickes Claims To Be "Progressive Republican" Although In Cabinet

ELIGIBILITY FOR 'DERN' PARLEY ISSUE

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1936, by International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 1.—An interesting controversy, which has its humorous side, and apparently involves the question of "When is a Democrat not a Democrat?" is engaging the deep consideration of politicians here and in Illinois.

Until the momentous question can be answered, or some compromise worked out, it will not be determined whether the most be-titled member of the Roosevelt cabinet, Secretary of the Interior, Harold L. Ickes, is going to sit in the Philadelphia convention as a delegate. Some of Ickes other titles are PWA administrator, federal oil administrator, etc.

Ickes would like to go to the convention as a delegate from his native state of Illinois.

Ham Lewis Says Yes

J. Hamilton Lewis, the suave senior senator from Illinois, would like to see him go; thinks by all means he should.

But the hitch is that "Honest Harold" is a Republican—or a progressive Republican, as he prefers to call it—and he won't change. At least, he won't change to the extent of formally declaring himself to be a Democrat, as his cabinet colleague, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, did a few days ago in Iowa. Wallace also was a Republican, or a progressive Republican, upon entering the Roosevelt cabinet.

The Democratic organization leaders of Illinois, including Michael Igot, insist that if they include Ickes in the Illinois delegation to Philadelphia he is going to have to say he is a Democrat.

Thus far, Ickes has refused. Thus far the Illinois organization leaders have stubbbornly maintained their position. And thus far it is unsettled whether Ickes is going.

Hit Party Morale

To take a registered Republican along to the convention as a delegate appeals to Igoe and his lieutenants as the height of incongruity, or something. It might be bad for organization morale.

But Ickes is also noted for his stubborn traits. He takes the position that he was invited into the Roosevelt cabinet as a gesture of gratification and appreciation for the support which millions of progressive Republicans gave to F. D. R. in 1932, and without whose support he probably could not have been elected. Ickes, incidentally, was secretary of the Progressive-Republican-league-for-Roosevelt in '32 He thinks that now to formally abandon his political classification would be an affront to his progressive Republican colleagues, and destroy the picture of a bi-partisan cabinet laboring for the public weal.

Ickes was sponsored for the cabinet post by Senators Hiram Johnson of California, and Sen. George W. Norris, both of whom supported Roosevelt, but have never changed their party designation as progressive Republicans.

There the situation rests at the moment, with the wires being kept busy between Washington and Chicago.

"Why, of course Mr. Ickes should go to Philadelphia," said Senator Lewis today "I think his cabinet position justifies sending him as a delegate irrespective of party affiliation or classification."

But "Honest Harold" may yet have to sit in the gallery, instead of on the floor—if the state bosses stand firm.

Harry Stuhldreher Goes To Wisconsin

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—Harry Stuhldreher, newly appointed to the dual role of athletic director and football coach at Wisconsin University, left here Thursday by airplane for Madison, Wis., to get the Badgers' spring gridiron training underway.

Selection of Stuhldreher's successor at Villanova college, where he was football coach since his playing days as a member of Notre Dame's famed "Four Horsemen", has not been made. Rev. Charles J. Melchior, Villanova's moderator of athletics, revealed that that "over 40 applicants" have applied for the position.

German Planes Crash; Five Dead

The two planes were totally wrecked. Reports that 11 lives were lost could not be verified.

Hotel Rally On Monday To Spur Safety Efforts

With Adam H. Lintz, field representative of the National Safety Council in Chicago, as one of the speakers, safety drive leaders of Lawrence county will gather at The Castleton on Monday evening, May 4, at 8 o'clock to informally map a uniform plan of action for promoting highway and industrial safety locally.

Attending will be the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce traffic safety committee, the entire membership of Governor Earle's newly announced county safety unit and spokesman for all the county's industrial plants.

Mayor Charles E. McGrath and Councilman Myron C. Rice, the latter the city's director of safety, expect to be present with other city and county officials.

The chairman of the meeting had not been chosen today. Other speakers besides Mr. Lintz will be Thomas L. Paden, chairman of the new governor's committee, and probably a leader of the Junior Chamber of Commerce "safe driving" campaign.

Ways of advancing a traffic survey here, one which would open up a practical and immediate channel for improving driving conditions, will also be discussed.

ADAM H. LINTZ

Plans will also be drawn up during the evening for a future meeting to boost the safety cause.

National Youth Administration Helps Thousands

Given Chance To Earn Something To Help Pay Their School Expenses

ARE EMPLOYED IN VARIOUS PROJECTS

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 1—More than 135,000 boys and girls in Pennsylvania between 16 and 25 years of age are being aided by the National Youth Administration, Isaac C. Sutton, state NYA director, asserted here in the first survey of project results in the commonwealth.

"An understanding of the problems faced by youths in this depression may be gained from the fact that we discovered 200,000 young men and women in families on relief in Pennsylvania who were not attending school," Sutton said.

"We now have 20,300 of these young people at work in various projects and in addition are making it possible for 34,000 of the state's young people, more especially in the rural districts, to earn $6 a month to pay their bus fares to and from high school. A great majority of these children would be absolutely unable to continue in high school without this assistance. This is particularly true in the hard and soft coal regions."

In college ranks, he added, 7,800 students are permitted to earn $15 a month providing they have enough class room rating. The money enables them to pay part of their living expenses.

"In addition to all this,," Sutton continued "we have arranged for WPA to employ 60,000 youths as priority workers. Only one in any family may receive the full WPA wage and these 60,000 represent that one for one reason or another. We have also placed 12,000 of our boys in CCC camps."

Numerous deaf, dumb, blind and crippled children have been placed in suitable positions, the state director revealed, and 80 youth centers have been established throughout the state.

Girls are taught dressmaking, millinery and rug weaving at the centers, while the boys are taught trades. Towns provide light, heat and rent for the schools but the youths themselves provide the furniture—much of it hand made.

"Some of our Philadelphia projects include the grading of 200 vacant lots for athletic and playgrounds use for which the workers are paid $20 a month," Sutton said. "Another is the painting of street names and route numbers on curbstones at the entrances to Philadelphia in preparation for the Democratic National convention.

"We adrealy have 30 boys and girls at work in the naturalization department of the federal courts, classifying naturalization papers and we have furnished 1,000 boys and girls to hospitals throughout the state.

"The latter are paid $20, $22.50 and $25 a month and are in training as nurses' helpers, in the diet kitchen and in electrical and carpenter shops. Already the hospitals have put on their own pay-rolls and permanently hired 60 of these boys and girls."

Post Office Will Be 'Paying Office' For War Veterans

Third Assistant Postmaster General C. B. Eilenberger at Washington today had formally notified Postmaster Richard A. Steen that the New Castle post office is one selected as a paying office of adjusted service bonds and that it is roughly estimated that 1,391 veterans in the district will be handled through the office.

"Of this number," wrote the postal official, "it is expected that 75 per cent will cash their bonds withing 30 days."

Instructions as to procedure were given in the letter that Mr. Eilenberger sent.

Napoleon's Trunk Given To Museum

(International News Service)

DRESDEN—A trunk left in the Rackwitz family palace at Dresden by Napoleon I in 1812 has been presented to the historical museum at the little Saxon town of Leisnig-on-the-Mulde, where it is now placed on show.

Absent-minded though Bonaparte might be in some ways, in others he left nothing to chance; for the trunk had no fewer than 22 compartments, besides secret drawers.

The Rackwitz's housekeeper, Fraeulein Franzel, was presented with the trunk as a token of recompense for having cared for the great Napoleon. It passed as an heirloom through many hands till it was established in Mildenstein Castle, where Leisnig's museum is now accommodated.

Screen Critics Of India Want Slender Stars

(International News Service)

CALCUTTA—Accustomed to the silhouette of western film actresses, Indian film critics now demand that their own "stars" should have slender figures.

One hitherto successful Indian actress has become the target of some sharp criticism on account of her failure to keep slim.

"She is bulky!" This is the blunt comment of the Indian journal "Filmland". "Her critics cry that she should say 'good-bye' for no other reason that her bulk is increasing daily."

But the magazine champions the actress by pointing out that she jumps out of bed "with all youthful agility and alertness" in her latest film.

"Bulk denotes rest," argues "Filmland", "but when it responds to motion, does it not come to attain slim stature?"

NOVEL METHOD FOR RAISING FUNDS TO HELP OUT CHURCH

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 1—A new stock went on the market in Pittsburgh recently when the St. James Roman Catholic church of west end issued "happiness insurance," in the form of "flood repair certificates."

Damage estimated at $30,000 was done to the historic church, parish house and school by the St. Patrick's day floods. The repair certificates provide for payment to the bearer (the St. James church) of one dollar "for unlimited dividends of self-satisfaction for having aided in the rehabilitation of the historic edifice."

The St. James church and school are the oldest Catholic buildings in Pittsburgh south of the Ohio river. The only copies of baptismal, marriage and death records of old parish members dating from 1854, were saved during the flood by Fr. Sheedy. He reached them in a parish house vault by means of a rowboat.

FARLEY TO LOOK OUT FOR DEMOCRAT'S MAIL

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 1—Delegates to the Democratic National convention here beginning June 23, will have their mail right "on tap" according to plans by postal authorities in Philadelphia.

A station will be established in convention hall at which mail will be delivered. Stamps will be on sale and other postal business transacted.

REPORT FEWER RABIES CASES

HARRISBURG, May 1.—Quarantines have checked the rabies epidemic in Montgomery, Delaware and Bucks counties, J. Hansell French, Secretary of Agriculture, announced today.

New cases of rabies have been reduced to eight or less per week in the three counties and fewer rabid dogs are being reported from other counties as the result of better control of dogs throughout the state.

Reporters Told Their Stories In Brief Form

(International News Service)

TONOPAH, Nev., May 1—Newspaper reporters of California's pioneer days were not prone to embellish the facts, all news items being couched in the briefest and simplest terms, it was disclosed by such items taken from a file on the Inyo (Cal.) Independent dated April 3, 1873:

"Brandit Vasquez was hanged in San Jose."

"James Bruce shot and killed Edward Barstow at Panamint March 23."

"A ledge of ore 40 feet wide has been found four miles south of Panamint. From 40 assays the lowest went $80 and the highest $420. It is called the Juno."

"Within six weeks the Surprise Valley company at Panamint will employ not less than 500 men."

On Court House Hill

Mrs. Ella Clark, of Mt. Jackson, representing residents of North Beaver township, was at the county commissioners office yesterday protesting against the filing of tax liens for 1935 taxes. It was claimed that it will add additional and unnecessary expense. She was told that the matter will be taken up with the board's attorney, William McElwee, Jr.

On a sheriff sale bill posted in the sheriff's office there is listed one duck. Any person in need of one duck might get a bargain by attending this sale.

County Controller Frank R. Hill has figured up the amount which it cost the county for election boards, and rent of buildings at the recent primary and finds that it totals $4,056.60. In the fourth district of Wayne township, where the votes was very light, the cost to the county per vote cast was $1.65.

The county relief department now has about 750 cases on the books. This is exclusive of those in the county home. There has been a gradual increase to the county rolls due largely to the shifting of old people or unemployables from the emeregncy relief to the county. The reduction in emergency relief cases which is announced from time to time is misleading in that it is not stated that this reduction is largely a shifting from the state to the county rolls. From reports received at county relief headquarters the same situation prevails in other counties of the state.

Some idea of the increase in taxes was given by a taxpayer who was at the county commissioners office yesterday. He said that he had been checking up his taxes, in former years and found that he is now paying eight times more taxes than he did in 1916 on the same property, although his property has necessarily depreciated during the past twenty years. He is opposed to real estate bearing the entire cost of government and advocated a sales tax.

Considerable local interest is being manifested in one of the propositions to go before the coming special session of the legislature, that of rebates of interest and penalties on delinquent taxes. There are several hundred thousand dollars of delinquent taxes in New Castle and Lawrence county. Some of the delinquencies date back as far as 1929, but the greater part are since that date, particularly from 1931 up until the present time. A large number of tax liens which have been on the books for the past five years have just been revived at the court house.

With better business conditions it is believed that if interest and penalties are again rebated there are hundreds of people who will make special efforts to clean up their taxes. Under the old act taxpayers were given five years in which to catch up their delinquencies, provided the current years taxes were paid. It is likely that the next legislature will pass a somewhat similar act. The only opposition will come from some who paid their taxes when they were due. They were persons who were fortunately situated and were able to do so. There are thousands who were not so fortunate, being out of employment and with no surplus funds on hands. The proposed act is to the advantage even of the men who has paid his taxes, for if the delinquencies are allowed to pile up, it means that those who are able to pay will be assessed more to make up for the deficiencies. In fact, for several years past the tax laying bodies have possessed more taxes that were necessary, figuring that there would be a certain percentage of persons who would be unable to pay. The county is sure to benefit by the re-enactment of a law eliminating interest and penalties.

County Treasurer Joseph H. Hartland has received word that Joseph A. Mateer, dog law enforcer for this district will be here within a few days, to make a checkup of county districts. Mr. Mateer says in his letter that he has received complaints from residents of several sections of Lawrence county, particularly in villages, that unlicensed dogs are running at large. It is garden making time now and the gardeners don't like to have dogs running over their gardens. Following Mateer's last visit to the county, when a number of informations were made against dog owners who had failed to take out licenses, Treasurer Hartland ordered 500 additional licenses. The supply is about exhausted and he has just sent in an order for one thousand additional. There are now over 6,500 dogs licensed, which is considerably more than last year. It is believed that there are around 7,000 dogs in the county.

MEDIATION BUREAU CLOSES DISPUTES

HARRISBURG, May 1.—Controversies over wages caused one-fourth of the labor disputes in Pennsylvania during the February-March period. The monthly report of the Bureau of Mediation submitted by its chief, Clarence J. Moser, to Secretary of Labor Ralph M. Bashore, shows there were eight such disputes, involving 1330 perons.

More persons were involved in six disputes caused by struggles for union recognition, 2535 persons being involved in these. Five disputes were caused by controversy over both wages and hours.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

AID TO STUDENT

During the last decade there has appeared a relatively new type of teaching material—the work book. The idea seems to have been borrowed partly from the work sheet of the school shop, and partly from the lessons of the correspondence school.

The usual work book is inexpensive, bound in paper, and is perishable. The content is such that the learner directs himself in most instances, and does his work right in the book. Whereas most work books merely supplement the regular text books, a few aim to supplant the usual text. Some, indeed, almost wholly take the place of the teacher, and truly can be called self-teaching.

Similar materials are put up in packets, all aiming to help the child direct his own learning and work at his own speed. A good many still, alas! suggest haste by setting time limits. They, we hope, will eventually disappear.

Parents can, by providing their children with such self-helps, with the advice of the teacher, do much to bring up the child who has lagged i. one or several subjects. Accordingly children may be able to go on with their class while working on some of their arrears. Work books are enabling teachers to find more time for individual instruction and for helping students help themselves. I regret, however, that many a self-sacrificing teacher is buying such helps for her backward children, out of her own meager earnings. Thousands of dollars are spent by teachers in this way. While we admire their self-denials, we cannot approve their judgment.

Work Book in Sunday School.

Even Sunday school lesson quarterlies are incorporating some of the features of the work book. And how much more interesting to do some of such exercises than to listen to a sermon by the teacher

I happen to know something about work books, having edited a number of them in the days when work books were just appearing on the horizon. I am also co-author of work books in arithmetic and algebra, among the first in those subjects. This year a work book appeared for teen age students entitled "Personal Efficiency and Citizenship", of which I am the "other author". On this subject several good books have recently been brought out by as many publishers. "My Life Book," by Neal Stoddard and L. A. Waehler, principal of Central high school, Madison, Wis., being one of the best.

Dr. Klemer will speak to the young men of the "Y." and to their invited friends 18 years of age or older. The young men's council of the association is sponsoring her appearance.

Eat Meat And Be Healthy Advises Arctic Explorer

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY—"Eat meat—and don't worry about your health" is, in effect, the advice of Vilhjalmer Stefanson, Arctic explorer.

Contrary to what the doctors may say, he told the members of the American Chemical Society at their recent annual meeting here that 10 years of exploration convinced him men can get along without vegetables.

Citing experiences of "over 20 men of several nationalities breaking themselves in to a meat diet," he said:

"The chief element involved in those cases have usually been seal and bear meat, but sometimes caribou. A man who has once been through this experience is willing to go back to the meat again for any length of time.

"The diseases considered to be due to dietary deficiency appear to be absent among meat eaters. Scurvy, for instance, is not only absent when meat is the sole diet, but is cured by fresh meat about as rapidly as by fresh tables.

Patience is not much of a virtue when it is spent in waiting for something to turn up.

District Leaders To Discuss Plans Of Flood Control

Industrial And Business Leaders In Pittsburgh Area Start Action

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 1.—More than 350 representatives of business and industrial firms in the Pittsburgh district were to meet here today with officials of the tri-state authority to show their support of the latter's campaign for government financed flood reservoirs in this area.

The authority's stand is that the federal government should bear the entire expense of flood control work despite the policy of the omnibus bill now before the senate which proposes communities and states share the cost of such work.

Newest support of the flood control movement came yesterday when it was announced the League of Women Voters had plunged into the fight. A committee of 100 women was to meet today to decide on a course of action.

Legion Factions Continue Battle Over Hall In Paris

Four Still Hold Fort In Debt-Ridden Headquarters Against Post Leaders

(International News Service)

PARIS, May 1.—Barricaded in the half-million-dollar American Legion headquarters after an overnight siege by gendarmes, four embattled members of the A. E. F. of 1936 today succeeded in establishing "lines of communication" with legion reinforcements being held in reserve "behind the lines" in sidewalk cafes across the street.

Food and drink were handed into the four legionnaires, all of whom fought at Chateau Thierry, through grills in the locked doors of Pershing Hall. Outside, leaders of the Legion post battled on the legal front for the right to hold a meeting in the hall, whose trustees, confronted with a debt of $350,000, renewed their efforts to eject the building's captors.

Fifty legionnaires waited in cafes for "any eventuality", and the eventuality was expected tonight when leaders said, if they were not allowed to hold their meeting in the hall, they would assemble in the street.

This would lead to trouble with the Americans' old friends, the Gendarmes, it was feared, since all meetings in the street are forbidden without three days' notice to the government, and street meetings are especially dangerous on May Day.

A formula, as such, is not a subject of copyright, but it can be trademarked.

Quiet May Day In Pittsburgh

No Extra Policemen Called Out, Expect Day To Pass Quietly

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 1.—Anticipating a quiet May Day, police took no unusual precautions here today.

No extra men were called out and the sheriff's office reported no requests for deputies for guard duty. It was believed most demonstrations will be against war and will be orderly.

A man paddling a canoe at a good rate may be able to paddle at about three miles an hour; two men at about four miles an hour.

Zioncheck Fails To Appear, Judge Takes $200 Bail

Rep. Zioncheck Forfeits $200 Bail In Alexandria, Virginia, Court

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The much-arrested Marion A. Zioncheck, Washington state's Democratic representative in congress, was fined a total of $66 today in Alexandria (Va.) police court for making the wheels of his motor speedster go 'round and 'round too fast.

When he failed to appear for a hearing, Judge Reese Duncan, in police court, declared his $200 collateral forfeited.

Irving Weinstein, the professional bondsman who placed his bail, has the option of swearing out a warrant for the congressman for failing to appear in court.

Judge Duncan fined Zioncheck $50 and $3 costs for speeding and driving recklessly through the downdown section of the nearby Virginia town yesterday in company of his bride, the former Ruby Louise Nix, of Texarkana, Tex., and $10 and $3 costs for acting disorderly before arresting officer, George Ellmore.

Official Count Of Vote Is Under Way

County Commissioners Supervising Work Of Securing Official Totals

Official count of the ballots cast at last Tuesday's primary election was started at the court house at noon today under the direction of the county commissioners.

Those doing the counting are Luke F. Agan, Rebecca R. McKee, George McIntosh and attorney LeRoy Donaldson. It is expected that the work will take several days.

It is not likely that the official count will make any changes in the general results, as the winners, according to the unofficial returns, nearly all had wide margins.

One of the results not yet announced, but which will be shown by the official count, will be the successful candidates for places on the county committees of the various parties.

This being presidential year it is likely that both the Republican and the Democratic committees will have plenty to do.

WASHINGTON AT A GLANCE

Republicans Too Have Brain Trust

Disgruntled Democrats Refer To Platform Experts With Derision

DEMOCRATS MAKE CAPITAL OF PLAN

Central Press
Washington Bureau
1900 S street

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The Republican high command is being laughted at by Democrats and bitterly blamed by many Republicans for having created a "brain trust" of the G. O. P.'s own to aid the national committee in formulating a campaign policy.

There is a certain amount of injustice in the charge that this was a piece of rank stupidity.

The complaint all along has been that the Republicans haven't had an issue—that they have done nothing except find fault with the New Deal without offering a substitute for it. Now, when Chairman Fletcher of the national committee surrounds himself with a board of experts, to frame something constructive for him, his latest procedure is variously condemned and laughed at as a worse mistake than ever.

* * *

MISFORTUNE?

The Republican bosses are out of luck rather than unintelligent.

They did not foresee that their board of experts immediately would be dubbed a "brain trust". Maybe they should have foreseen it, but, even so, they needed the experts.

They are unlucky, too, in having the uninvited friendship of certain folk who are trying to help them.

They are not responsible for the American Liberty league or for the Talmadge-Kirby southern constitutionalists' activities. These outfits undoubtedly are improving President Rosevelt's prospects, and the G. O. P. committee cannot prevent them from doing so.

* * *

LACKS "MASS APPEAL"

The Liberty league assuredly is not a popular organization.

It has considerable money, but what are its few millions in comparison with the administration's billions in relief funds? It turns out what looks as if it should be an excellent line of publicity, but it lacks mass appeal, somehow—is addressed too much to the ultra-prosperous, possibly.

The league's big dinner of a few months ago, at which Al Smith made his "take a walk" speech, today is Republicanly recognized as having been a Roosevelt vote maker. It was an unpopularly swallow-tail function, for one thing, and was widely so advertised. Moreover, Al Smith has won the reputation of a grouch; he isn't the Al of 1928—and even then he was beaten.

* * *

DISGRUNTLED DEMOCRATS

This anti-Rooseveltian bungling hasn't been done by the Republican management.

It has been done, at the Republicans' expense, largely by disgruntled Democrats—mostly so in the case of the American Liberty league and exclusively so in the case of the Talmadge-Kirby aggregation.

The Republican bosses can't be accused of fat-headedness for the blundering of the Liberty league and the Talmadge-Kirby-ites.

They simply were unlucky.

* * *

ANOTHER "BRAIN TRUST"?

Business has improved, but unemployment hasn't decreased appreciably.

President Roosevelt takes the position that this is because business has gobbled all the benefit, disregarding labor.

The Republicans want to prove that business isn't to blame. So Chairman Fletcher takes on a corps of experts to demonstrate it—and his experts immediately are referred to as a "brain trust", and get the ha-ha.

More bad luck for the Republicans!

* * *

A NEW SITUATION

The fact is, the Republicans are accustomed only to being the dominant party.

Hitherto, even when they have been beaten, they have not been beaten badly.

To be "smacked down" is a new experience to them.

They do not know the technique of being a minority.

The so-called lunar rainbow, or moon rainbow, is well known, though not very frequently seen, owing to the relatively feeble light of the moon.

Students May Listen To Own Talk In School

(International News Service)

MIDDLETOWN, Conn.—Students of public speaking at Wesleyan will have an opportunity to learn to speak correctly by hearing themselves speak as others hear them.

Special recording and reproducing apparatus, a gift of an alumnus, is being installed to aid students in determining their faults in enunciation.

The recording studio will be a room within a room which is acioustically "dead" in that its walls do not touch the walls of the surrounding rooms.

The speech apparatus is designed to aid students with speech difficulties by demonstrating their faults by means of records.

Says Astrologers Use Wrong Zodiac

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Astrologers, who look to the stars for guidance in every day affairs, not only are the victims of superstition, but but are using a Zodiac several thousand years out of date.

This is the explanation by James Stokley, director of the Fels Planetarium at the Franklin Institute, in his new book, "Stars and Telescopes." While the constellations have shifted, Stokley pointed out, "the signs of the Zodiac remain as they were two thousand or more years ago."

"When the sun or a planet is now in the sign of Aries, the ram," he said, "it is actually in the next door constellation of Pisces, the fishes."

Mother Of Ten Is A Student Lawyer

(International News Service)

BOSTON—Being a mother of 10 children does not dim the ambition of Mrs. Minna Kapstein, Providence, R. I., to realize her life's ambition to be a lawyer.

In fact, according to Mrs. Kapstein, completing four years of study at Portia law school is harder than rearing her large family. She takes her final examinations in June.

During her four years of study at the law school, Mrs. Kapstein, who is 37, has motored back and forth from Providence to Boston every day. Her nights are given over to her family and her textbooks, and about one hour a day is devoted to her work as editor of the senior year book.

King Decrees Jail And Fine For Foul Talk

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST—To curb the inclination of the average Rumanian toward swearing and improper language, King Carol signed a decree to the effect that persons pronouncing oaths or using obscene language in public are liable to imprisonment from one to six months and a fine of 20,000 Lei (approximately $2,000.)

This decree forms part of the new Rumanian penal code. The people of this country are renowned for their lack of squeamishness and for their truly remarkable imagination in using foul languages. Even persons belonging to the upper classes consider obscene oaths as part of the normal Rumanian vocabulary, and the words one hears in a traincarriage or a respectable cafe—no matter how many ladies are present—would give the shock of her life to the most modern Anglo-Saxon girl.

The purpose of King Carol's anti-swearing decree is to force his subjects to use their rich imaginations for higher purposes.

Burmese Prefer Gangster Films

(International News Service)

RANGOON—Gangtser films, full of crime, thrills and "G-men", represent the Burmese idea of the best cinema entertainment. Historical pictures and musical and dancing comedies tie for second place.

Comic pictures are enjoyed but are ranked as definitely second class.

The census revealed that emotional pictures leave an audience in Burma quite cold.

GAS TAX COLLECTED BY BORDER PATROL

HARRISBURG, May 1.—Pennsylvania liquid fuels tax was collected on 35,249 gallons of gasoline admitted into the state over the Ohio border by the border patrols of the Department of Revenue during March, Secretary of Revenue John B. Kelly announced today.

The border patrols issued 738 clearance certificates covering exports and imports of 1,363,747 gallons of petroleum products during the month. Of the total amount checked 1,249,140 gallons were gasoline and 114,607 gallons were kerosene, naphtha, oils, nuagen, benzol and spirits. Gasoline exports totaled 894,891 gallons.

Reemployment Campaign Will Be Undertaken

United States Chamber Of Commerce Seeks To Provide More Jobs

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Physical machinery for a new drive to ferret out and bring to light every opportunity for new jobs was swinging into action today at the direction of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

While 2,000 delegates to the chamber's 24th annual meeting just concluded, streamed homeward, officials at national headquarters already were setting up preliminary units for the re-employment work.

Reach Decision

The decision to conduct the re-employment survey was made by the business leaders early in the week. They invited the federal government to unite with them in the work of speeding re-hiring of idle millions.

Almost without exception, the delegates went on record as opposed to President Roosevelt's policies of government, but in the move to aid the unemployed, determined that every organized group of the country—including the government—should unite in the common cause.

Groundwork Laid

Some of the groundwork for the study was already laid. A tabulating machine company has put at the service of the chamber all the office machines that it will need in the huge task. Several other big business organizations have offered the service of their trained stenographic, clerical and research staffs. A number of trade associations have notified the chamber they wish to actively help in the big job.

Up to the present, nothing has been heard from any governmental agency in response to the chamber's invitation. Chamber officials, however, said privately that they expected the government soon to actively co-operate in the program.

President Harper Sibley of the chamber, will name a special committee to head the survey work. Present and tentative plans call for a two-phase program.

To Provide Jobs

The first phase will consist of a thorough compilatior of unemployment statistics, with the emphasis laid on determining the various spots in the country where idleness is most intense. The second, and most important part, will be a checkup of all industries and business, to determine just how jobs can be provided in the sectors where there are large numbers of unemployed.

Every effort will be directed toward providing jobs in localities where they are most needed—but of course the major objective will be simply to provide jobs.

Chamber executives privately predicted the survey will turn up thousands of opportunities for the jobless.

WOULD ACCEPT LEWIS OFFER

Liberal Delegates To Iron And Steel Conference Would Override Conservatives

(International News Service)

CANONSBURG, Pa., May 1.—Confident after showing unexpected strength on a test vote, liberal delegates to the annual convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers today began an active drive to override the conservatives and vote acceptance of a $500,000 offer from John L. Lewis to unionize the steel industry.

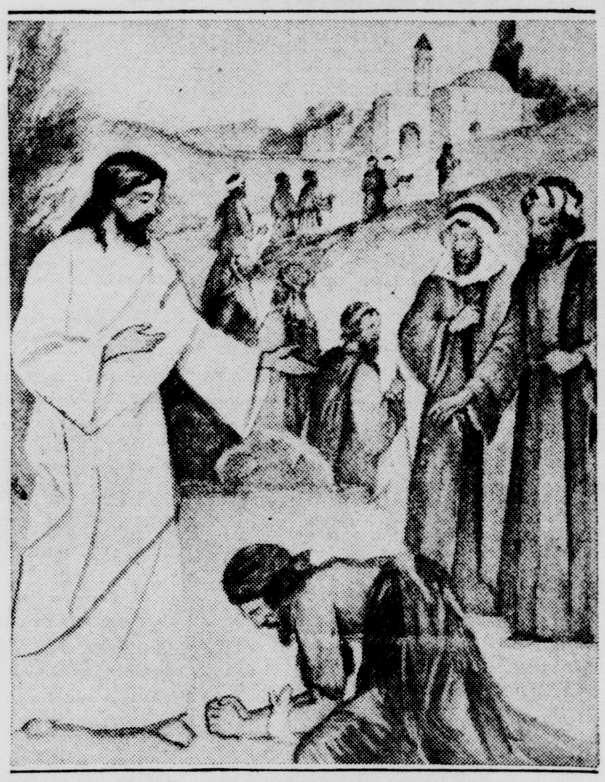

Spokesman for the younger element, Clarence Irwin, of Youngstown, O., said a motion will be introduced to seat two delegates now being barred from the convention by the credentials committee. If these two delegates, one from Pittsburgh and the other from Monessen, are seated, the liberal faction will have a one-vote majority in the convention, according to Irwin.

On a test vote to invite a Lewis representative to address the convention and explain the offer of a $500,000 campaign chest, the liberals lost by one vote, 43 to 42. Michael F. Tighe, 78-year-old president of the union, was expected to lead the fight in opposition to alignment with Lewis who demands industrial unionization of the steel industry rather than craft unionization favored by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Jesus Teaches Forgiveness

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Ephesians 4:32—"Be ye kind one to another, tender hearted, forgiving each other, even as God also in Christ forgave you."

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 3 is Luke 17:1-19, the Golden Text being Ephesians 4:32: "Be ye kind one to another, tender hearted, forgiving each other, even as God also in Christ forgave you.")

"TO ERR IS human, to forgive divine," says Pope in his "Essay on Criticism." And we shall always have plenty both to forgive and to be forgiven.

Jesus Teaches Forgiveness

Jesus said to his disciples, "It is impossible but that occasions of stumbling should come, but woe unto him through whom they come." Thus he warns us that we shall meet with sin in the world. But he in no sense excuses those who cause others to fall into sin.

"It were well for him if a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he were thrown into the sea, rather than that he should cause one of these little ones to stumble." These solemn words from our Lord, who was never given to exaggeration, should set us all to inquiring to what degree we may be party to social and economic conditions which lead others into immortality and sin.

What is our responsibility for the wrong doing of others? And what is our responsibility toward the wrong doer? Jesus says that our first responsibility is to rebuke him for his sin. "Take heed to yourselves" if thy brother sin,, rebuke him."

It is the part of a friend to tell us of our faults in the spirit of love. Silence in such matters gives consent. If kindly rebuke has its desired result of bringing repentance we will, of course, forgive: "If he repent, forgive him." Neither will true love set limits to its forgiveness or keep score of how many times this forgiveness is necessary: "If he sin against thee seven times in the day, and seven times turn again to thee, saying, I repent; thou shalt forgive him."

It takes a lot of faith, both in God and in humility, to keep on forgiving in that manner. So the disciples evidently have felt when they said to the Lord, "Increase our faith," Patience never is exhausted so long as faith is not exhausted.

Jesus Teaches Humility

When we have shown this patient and forgiving spirit toward those who do wrong, let us not become conceited and feel that great praise is due for this forgiving spirit.

To impress this truth Jesus used a parable from the life of the slaves of his day. No such slave in that day expected his master to make a great fuss over him for doing his day's work. Neither should we who need so much forgiveness ourselves think it so wonderfully creditable of us to show forgiveness to others.

Rather we should humbly say, "We are unprofitable servants; we have done that which it was our duty to do."

Jesus Teaches Gratitude

Luke alone records the gratitude of the one leper who was a Samaritan, as he alone records the parable of the Good Samaritan. Ten lepers in the same hopeless plight cried out, "Jesus, Master, have mercy on us." All of them heard his message of hope, "Go and show yourselves unto the priests." Which was the equivalent of his saying, "Go to the health board and get a clean bill of health," for "as they went they were cleansed. But only one of the ten was grateful enough to take the extra time to turn back to say "Thank you." And Jesus noted the ingratitude of the nine and was grieved over it, saying, "Were there not ten cleansed?" but where are the nine?"

The percentage is about the same with us. Ten enjoy health from God's hands to one that gives him praise. Are we with the nine?"

New Pastor Is Given Welcome

Central Christian Members Have Reception For Rev. T. B. Shearer Last Night

MISS SHERGER IN CHARGE OF PROGRAM

Several hundred members of the Central Christian church gathered Thursday night and gave an enthusiastic welcome to their new pastor, Rev. T. B. Shearer, and his wife and mother-in-law, Mrs. James Hamlet.

The reception took place in the church and was conducted in a delightfully informal way. Everyone had an opportunity to greet the minister who took over the pastorate last Sunday and to give his or her personal welcome.

Miss Mary Scherger was in charge of the program and David Lewis led the congregational singing.

The program was as follows:

Prayer—Led by F. L. Downs.

Remarks—Rev. E. G. Audrey, pastor of the First Christian church of Ellwood City; Rev. G. S. Bennett, D.D., pastor of the First Christian church of New Castle; and Arthur J. Howell, of Ellwood City, a former member of Central Christian church.

Selection—Men's quartet, composed of Richard Richards, Matt Richards, Rev. T. B. Shearer and Dave Lewis.

Response—Rev. T. B. Shearer.

Refreshments were served by a committee from the Loyal Ladies' and Dorcas classes of the church.

New State Milk Control Order Coming May 15

Principal purpose of the new order as planned, it was said, is to adjust milk prices in accord with current conditions. The present order has been the subject of considerable controversy throughout the state.

Officials said the new order will be based on evidence submitted to the board at recent public hearings in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Scranton, Pottsville, Erie and Media and on the results of investigations and informal hearings in Harrisburg.

Soviets Observe May Day, Stage Military Display

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, May 1.—Symbols of "Soviet abundance" marched along with a demonstration of the red army's might today as the U. S. S. R. celebrated May Day with mixed gaiety and grimness.

While 750 airplanes made a deafening roar overhead and 300 tanks clanked over the pavement, 30,000 picked soldiers marched through Red Square, where Josef Stalin, Soviet dictator, stood atop the tomb of Lenin.

On the heels of the armed display, 1,500,000 citizens marched by in a procession that took hours to pass.

Workmen painted the flag pole on the public square this morning.

Senator Borah Campaigns For Favor In Ohio

Leaves Four "Simple And Old-Fashioned" Remedies For Nation's Ills

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., May 1.—Having enumerated for the Republican party four "simple and old-fashioned" remedies for the nation's ills "without destroying one iota of the constitution," Sen. William E. Borah returned to Washington today but will be back in Ohio Saturday for a series of speeches before the May 12 primary.

Any movement toward recovery, the Republican presidential aspirant told a statewide Borah rally here last night, must spring from reverence toward the constitution and its preservation from "dictatorial hands in Washington."

To bulwark the spirit of individual freedom, the Idahoan insisted, must be three fundamental principles—destruction of monopolies, neutrality in the face of European wars, and repeal of laws empowering the president to effect reciprocal trade agreements.

Senator Borah vigorously assailed the Ohio Republican organization which advanced Attorney Robert A. Taft, son of the late chief justice, as a "favorite son" presidential candidate.

"Robert Taft is but a shadow man serving as the instrument for his party bosses," declared Borah. "No one concedes Taft actually seeks the presidency. He is working hand in glove with scoundrels who will sell Ohio's delegation at the convention to the highest bidder."

Gangster Will Be Re-Sentenced To Chair Death

New Jersey Judge Will Re-Sentence Charles Zeid To Die In Electric Chair

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., May 1.—Charles Zeid, the small-time gangster who was saved by a 30-day reprieve from preceding Bruno Richard Hauptmann to the electric chair in the Trenton death house, today was to be resentenced to death by Judge Frank F. Neutz in Camden county court.

Zeid's stay, granted by Gov. Harold G. Hoffman after he made a long affidavit protesting his innocence, expired last midnight. He is to pay the supreme penalty for the murder of William Feitz, a Camden detective shot to death in a raid on a disorderly house here in September, 1934.

Zeid's affidavit included charges, authorities said, that three Camden policemen were on the payroll of his bosses—Robert Mais and Walter Legenza, cold-blooded killers who were executed in Richmond, Va.

According to his attorney, John A. Penn, Zeid's last hope is an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court for which no funds are available.

Child Awarded To Custody Of Father

Hearing Is Held On Habeas Corpus Writ Of Samuel Against Mary Ciampoli

After a hearing before Judge James A. Chambers at court this morning, Constance Ciampoli, aged 5 years, daughter of Samuel and Mary Ciampoli, was awarded to the custody of her father.

Mr. and Mrs. Ciampoli separated last year, Mrs. Ciampoli taking her daughter with her. In his petition for a writ of habeas corpus Mr. Ciampoli claimed that the mother is working and not able to give the child the attention that she should. Ciampoli claimed that he had a good home for her and was awarded the child.

After the award had been made the child set up such a cry in the corridor of the court room that nearly all the occupants of the offices rushed out to see what was the matter. She appeared to want to stay with her mother. The mother will have an opportunity of visiting her at stated intervals.

British Minister Affirms Advocacy Of Principles Of Disraeli

(International News Service)

LONDON, May 1.—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin in an address at Albert hall today affirmed his advocacy of the principles of Disraeli "for maintenance of religion, the throne and the constitution."

"Attacks on religion abroad have made us determined to preserve our religion in this country," said Baldwin. "The crown is more firmly imbedded in the hearts of the people than it ever has been before, it being the greatest bulwark for democracy against despotism and tyranny from any quarter.

"The more other countries are disturbed constitutionally, the less likely our people to contemplate drastic changes."

Attacks New Tax Measure As Death Decree

(International News Service)

WASHINGINGTON, May 1.—In a vitriolic assault upon President Roosevelt's new $814,000,000 tax bill, M. L. Seidman, of the New York board of trade today denounced it as a "virtual death sentence" for all small business corporations and all holding companies.

Seidman said the bill would provide "almost complete confiscation of income in the top brackets" from investments in corporations, leaving tax exempt securities "the only haven for taxpayers". He declared the government should issue no more tax exempt securities if it expected to get any real revenue from the new bill.

Roosevelt And Robinson Confer

Pay Parking Plan Shown To Council

City Officials Have Demonstration Of Proposition On Thursday Afternoon

City authorities may and may not adopt the "Pay As You Park Your Auto Plan" in New Castle, the mayor and councilmanic colleagues having been given a demonstration Thursday afternoon by a representative of a company which controls the system.

According to Mayor Charles E. McGrath the autoist could drive to a curb and insert a coin in a box. When the time limit on parking ended the arrow on the box would drop showing the parking time had expired. If an officer came along and saw the arrow down the autoist would receive a tag.

"What about putting in two nickles or twice as much so a person could occupy the space for twice the period allowed?" the mayor was asked to which he replied: "No, the autoist would have to come back each half hour or at the limit of the stipulated time and drop in a coin."

Mayor McGrath said that the representative visited them and they gave him an audience and that no decision has yet been reached whether or not the system will be put into effect here.

AROUND CITY HALL

Council was in a jovial mood Thursday and after transacting what business came before them the session turned into a story telling bee with honors going to C. Ed. Brown, Joe Alexander and B. F. Butler. In fact the session which was supposed to have been one in which persons would be hired and fired, proved far different. Only one person was named and W. Herbert Smith drew a job which formerly was held by the late Matthew Gunton. He will be a member of the board of appeals and zoning for the next couple years.

B. F. Butler, director of streets, shunned the idea of mailing letters from city officials to persons in distant towns with a return address stamped with a rubber stamp. When the proposal was made that the rubber stamp be used Mr. Butler remarked: "That would cheapen the city." If a mimeograph is used to print ordinances the move will result in a small saving.

Property-owners of Green street between West Grant street and West Lincoln avenue have submitted a petition to council requesting that the street be graded. Several owners have not signed. Those who did have agreed to release the city from damages. The work will be done by WPA labor.

Mrs. S. Emma Baer has offered to allow the city to secure 15,000 tons of surface stone from her land for $100, according to a proposal made to the city. The land is located in Neshannock township. No pit more than three feet below the surface of the ground may be made and any damages made to certain trees must be paid for by the city, according to the proposal. The offer will be accepted, council indicated, if the stone is needed for street paving.

BREAKS PIPE SMOKED FOR PAST 100 YEARS

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 1—Despite the hopes of Frank Liska, of near Mt. Pleasant, it was no "pipe dream"—his most treasured possession was broken beyond repair.

Liska's prize possession was a 100 year old cherry wood pipe, and, tragically enough, it was accidentally knocked from a mantle in his home and the bowl was cracked through.

The pipe was carved by Liska's grandfather in Europe when he was a young man. It was smoked by its maker and later by his son and grandson

Maxie Baer Is Really Going To Lead Band

(International News Service)

PASADENA, Cal., May 1—Max Baer, former heavyweight champion who will hang up his gloves and take up the baton, will make his debut as a maestro in Sacramento, Cal. May 9.

That was the definite announcement here today of the Livermore butcher boy who rose to fistic heights. His career, he said, henceforth will be musical, and he has contracted to lead a touring 15-piece Los Angeles orchestra.

Baer, who is here to referee some amateur fights, will fill a week of refereeing engagements before he starts with his orchestra.

EDWARD YOUNG

The Life Service Group and Gospel Team of Muskingum College is presenting "Operation at One", a one-act play, at the Third United Presbyterian church on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

This highly dramatized episode is taken from the actual conflict of Christianity and communism in China today. The play was first presented in Brown chapel, Muskingum college, and was so enthusiastically received that it has been since produced in various churches in this district.

The cast is made up of a group of experienced actors. All of them have had previous theatrical experience in campus productions. Dr. Stafford, a medical missionary, is played by Edward Young, Zelienople, Pa., and Vance Yarnelle, Freeport, Pa., plays Ko, a communist leader. Other members of the cast include: Katherine Campbell, Petrolia, Pa.; Carl Taylor, Roorkee, India; Anna Mae Graham, Turtle Creek, Pa.; Oliver Theophilus, New Castle, and Ralph Wymer, New Concord. The production is directed by Prof. W. H. Ewing, department of speech, Muskingum college.

Oliver Theophilus is a well-known New Castle young man and a member of the Third United Presbyterian church, where the play is to be presented. He is also serving the gospel team as business manager.

Katherine Campbell is in charge of the music, Carl Pierson is stage manager and Anna Mae Graham is make-up chairman.

"Operation at One" was featured at the twelfth quadrennial convention of the student volunteer movement in Indianapolis last December and has been well received when presented in many localities throughout the United States and Canada.

BRITAIN STUDIES OUR POTATO WART WORK

HARRISBURG—British Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries is closely followed the experiments of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture with potato wart eradication methods, according to a letter received by R. H. Bell, Director of the Bureau of Plant Industry.

Potatoes shipped to this country from England during the American shortage in 1912 introduced the wart disease here. Some of the diseased potatoes were planted in backyard gardens in several Luzerne county mining communities, thus infecting the soil. Traces of the fungus were found in 300 small gardens and one potato field.

Phillips Named Again As Head Of State Labor

For Eighth Consecutive Year John A. Phillips Is Unanimously Elected

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 1.—By the rousing, unanimous vote of the entire convention, John A. Phillips of Philadelphia today began his eighth term as head of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor.

Phillips' re-election was accompanied by an unprecedented demonstration of approval after Pat Fagan, district head of the United Mine Workers, made a laudatory speech for him.

Harrisburg was unanimously selected for the 1937 convention. Phillips was also named a delegate to the national convention at Tampa, Fla.

Other officers re-elected were: Vice presidents, Lawrence J. Katz, Harrisburg; Charles Weinstein, Philadelphia; John Kmetz, Nanticoke; Howard L. Woodmansee, Pittsburgh; William Cooney, Olyphant; L. D. Jennings, Erie, and A. P. Bower of Reading. Lester Thomas, Larksville, was re-elected financial secretary and treasurer, and James J. McElroy, Philadelphia; Walter Savage, Nanticoke, and John Drubosky, Taylor, were named auditors.

Tree, Rose, And Hay Fever Sufferers Are In For Tough Season

By WATSON FENIMORE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, May 1—For Pennsylvania's estimated 96,000 victims of tree, rose and hay fevers Dr. J. Alexander Clarke, former president of the Philadelphia Allergy Society, today made a sad prediction.

Recent floods and heavy rains are combining to make this spring and subsequent months as uncomfortable for hay fever sufferers as was last year, Dr. Clarke disclosed in an interview. Last year, he added, speaking officially for the Philadelphia county medical society, conditions were far worse than usual because of continued wet weather.

Plenty Of Water

"There is no reason why this season should be mild" he declared. "The grass has gotten plenty of water, is growing luxuriantly and is in good condition, much as it was a year ago." The only hope of a mild year, he added, is in either a sudden drought that would kill vegetation or heavy rains that would keep pollen from flying.

At least one per cent of the commonwealth's 9,631,000 residents are afflicted with various forms of the ailment, statistics show. Approximately one third of the 96,000 will begin to suffer "rose fever" about May 15, according to the society's estimates; a majority suffer the more severe type, called rag weed hayfever, from August 15 to the first frost, while a small percentage already are afflicted with hay fever running from March to June 1.

Those susceptible to rose fever will do well to keep out of the country districts until the end of orchard grass pollen about July 15, warned Dr. Clarke, explaining that grasses and not roses cause this type of ailment.

Orchard Grass

"Orchard grass is the chief offender," he explained, "although on farms, meadow grass is sometimes a cause. We expect the first dust to fly in this section about May 15 and possibly one or two weeks later in other parts of the state."

Improvement in the anti-pollen injection treatment is gradually aiding allergic individuals, Dr. Clarke has found. "The treatments" he said, "have been getting better each year. A majority who take them now get at least a season's relief while some few have reported permanent cure. To be effective, however, the treatments must be begun three months in advance of the disease's usual appearance."

Air-Conditioning

But if you have waited too late to get an injection there's nothing like an air-cooled movie, office building or restuarant to provide temporary relief.

Dr. Clarke explained: "Air-conditioning—if it is real and the air actually is washed or demudified—takes the pollen out of the air and brings a measure of relief. The results, however, last only while the person remains in the building. Once outside, sneezing begins again."

U. S. Has Best Dancers, Says Mistinguette

(International News Service)

LONDON.—American girl dancers are still way ahead of their English sisters declares Mistinguette, darling of the French music-halls and owner of the "million dollar legs."

In London for a brief visit, Mistinguette, at 65 years, is still the same gay, vivacious person who for so long has been the idol of Paris and other world cities.

"I am looking for some 'attractives,' some English girls, for a new revue in which I am to appear in Paris next month. But I have not been lucky," she sighed.

"The girls are pretty, certainly, but they have not got that gaiety, that chic, that sex appeal that American dancers have. It is possibly what goes down on the London stage is not what pleases Paris or New York.

But the English girls may be consoled with the famous dancer's other remarks:

"In Paris no one dresses smartly any more. People do not bother to change in the evening. I like wearing beautiful clothes, and in London everyone is so smart now," Mistinguette smiled.

BREAK FOR AUNTY

"It is the duty of every one to make a person happy during the week," said the Sunday school teacher. "Have you done so, Freddy?"

"Yes," said Freddy, promptly. "I went to see my aunt, and she was happy when I went home."

Discovers Owl In Oven Crate

(International News Service)

VANCOUVER, Wash.—The screech of an owl is never very pleasant, but when it comes from your kitchen stove while you're having breakfast it's—well, it's pretty frightful.

That's the opinion of Mrs. William Beard, who lives near here, and she should know because it happened to her.

Mrs. Beard said she was having breakfast when "an awful scream" sounded in the kitchen. When the cry came again, Mrs. Beard located it as coming from the stove. Failing to find anything in the oven, she opened the grate and found a small owl lying in the ashes.

The bird was not injured, as the stove was not in use at the time, Mrs. Beard said. A bath and a bite of food effected a complete cure.

Mrs. Beard could offer no explanation as to how the bird found its way down the chimney into the stove pipe, through the stove and into the firebox.

Fires Revolver In Club Building

Police Take South Side Man Into Custody This Morning After Shooting

Gus Martin, operator of a club in the building formerly occupied by the Union National bank, Long avenue, was arrested by Detective Cy Horner, Plainclothesman M. J. Young and Patrolman Peter Hillers at 8:10 a. m. today after Martin was alleged to have fired three shots inside his building, one of which hit and shattered a large plate glass window of the building. The glass flew across the cartway, attracting attention.

When the officers went into the place they found Martin with a revolver in his hand and he was taken to jail. When he appeared before Mayor Charles E. McGrath he said that he expected trouble with two men and that he was trying out the gun to see that it worked properly. He had old bullets of various sizes. He placed three which fit in the cylinder of the revolver then discharged them.

Two bullets were fired into the floor and another shattered the plate glass window.

Mayor McGrath instructed Police Chief John F. Haven to investigate the shooting further. Martin was charged with disorderly conduct on the police docket.

Earle Explains Separate Planes

Governor And Wife Have Iron-Clad Rule Never To Travel In Same Plane

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 1. — Gov. George H. Earle, Pennsylvania's No. 1 pilot, has his own ideas about safety in traveling the airways.

Observers had noted that the governor and his wife, who frequently travel by plane, never flew in the same plane. Today the reason was disclosed.

The chief executive and Mrs. Earle have an iron-clad rule, which has never been broken, not to fly the same airplane. It is a precautionary measure. Explaining that he and his wife were traveling to Worcester, Mass., Saturday by plane, but would fly in different ships, the governor told newspapermen:

"We feel, because of our four children, that we shouldn't fly in the same plane."

Governor Earle, an enthusiastic aviation devotee and a pilot in his own right, uses a plane frequently in his trips and on short hops personally flies his own autogiro, which he prefers to normal type aircraft.

Crime Tactics Are Duplicated

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 1.—Tactics identical with those employed by the slayer of Nancy Evans Titterton were used by an unidentified intruder who ruthlessly attacked Mrs. Margaret Smith, 29-year-old mother of two children, police said today.

The man, police said, invaded Mrs. Smith's apartment on the pretense of collecting a milk bill, bound and gagged her, and after attacking her tossed her unconscious into a clothes closet, where she remained for nine hours, until her sister, Mrs. Petty Gordon, discovered her.

Flaming Death Wrote Finis To Birthday Party

Newton, Mass., Woman Perishes In Fire After Happy Party Event

(International News Service)

NEWTON, Mass., May 1.—Flaming death today wrote finis to the happy birthday party of Mrs. Marianne Reece, 33-year-old mother of a baby girl, as she perished in a second-story bedroom of the home of friends in which the party had been given. Her body was found face down on the floor by firemen.

After the party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Ingalls, Mrs. Reece retired. A few hours later Mrs. Ingalls discovered the fire of undetermined origin which she traced to the room in which her guest was sleeping.

Ingalls was balked in efforts to rescue Mrs. Reece by a sheet of flame which shot from the room when the door was opened.

The Ingalls and a maid, Josephine Winn, trapped on the second floor by flames which shot up both stairways, escaped by rope ladders.

Shenango Presbyterial In Session Thursday

With audiences that taxed capacity of the church building, the annual meeting of the Shenango Presbyterial was held on Thursday at the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church, near Ellwood City. Members of the Slippery Rock church proved most capable and efficient hosts and the day was in every way an enjoyable and profitable one for the delegations attending from the 40 or so churches of the presbytery.

During the day it was announced that the convention in 1937 will be held in the Sharon Presbyterian church.

The meeting yesterday included three sessions, morning, afternoon and evening.

At the morning session, Mrs. W. L. Wishart was in charge of the devotional period, with greetings being given by Mrs. Thomas Berger, and a response by Mrs. B. F. McDowell. Reports of the presbyterial officers, showing excellent work during the past year, were presented and committees were named . Members appointed were: Place, Mrs. John King, Mrs. Oscar Jackson nad Mrs. Garrett Boyd; courtesy, Mrs. O. G. Scheu, Mrs. M. A. Bickett and Mrs. John Brenneman. Special musical selections were contributed by Mrs. Warren Wilson and Miss Frances Worrell. Concluding the session was an address by Miss Mary Moore, secretary of young people's work of the Foreign Missions board, which was an inspiring presentation.

Afternoon Session.

Following luncheon, the afternoon session was opened with a worship service in charge of Miss Margaret Duff. Address of the afternoon was made by Miss Rachel Benfer, representative of the National Mission board, who told of her work in the southern mountain regions and among the Spanish settlements in New Mexico, in a vivid and interesting manner. William Boyer contributed a solo, and reports of committees were heard.

During the afternoon session a number of important places in the presbyterial organization were filled, in the following elections: Vice president New Castle district, Mrs. John Kalajainen of Calvary church, New Castle R. D. 1; vice president Ellwood City district, Mrs. E. C. Porter, New Castle R. D. 1; vice president New Wilmington district, Mrs. King McCreary, Rich Hill, Volant R. D. 3; secretary White Cross, Mrs. J. H. McClelland, Westfield, New Castle R. D. 8; secretary overseas hospital work, Mrs. Robert McBurney, First Presbyterian church, New Castle; intermediate secretary, Miss Ruth Moore, Sharon; field secretary, Mrs. Howard Magill, First church, New Castle.

During the serving of dinner at 6:30 o'clock, Robert Duff was in charge of a musical program and two selections were given by the young men's quartet of the Central Presbyterian church of New Castle.

Evening Session.

The evening session was devoted to the young people. Devotionals were in charge of Miss Lillian Campbell and Miss Geraldine Fry, and a banner was presented to the Mahoning church of New Castle for the year's work. Miss Moore again made an address, emphasizing the work of the foreign board. The Central Presbyterian quartet sang another selection, and following was a play, "Great Possessions," well presented by the young ladies of the Slippery Rock church. Miss Benfer also spoke during the evening, and musical selections were contributed by the choir of the host church.

Mrs. George W. Conway, president of the Presbyterial, presided at the morning and afternoon meetings, and Mrs. W. R. Armstrong of Volant at the evening meeting.

Heading the committee of the Slippery Rock church in the successful arrangements for the day was Mrs. C. W. Boyer, president of the church missionary society.

Rep. Zioncheck Is 'In' Again

Rep. Zioncheck And His Bride Halted In Alexandria, Virginia, For Speeding

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Rep. Marion A. (In-again-out-again) Zioncheck was "in again" today, this time in Alexandria, Va., across the Potomac from here.

Arrested on a charge of speeding his snappy roadster through Alexandria's business section at "about 60 miles an hour," and for acting disorderly, the arresting officer claimed Washington state's Democratic representative and bridegroom of three days gave him quite some "lip" and called him an "ugly name". Zioncheck had considerable difficulty in raising the $200 collateral for his release.

Money Pledged

Finally the money was pledged by a professional bondsman after the congressman had been detained in a waiting room at police headquarters until the money was presented.

Ironically his bride, the former Miss Ruby Louise Nix, 21, the ex-PWA stenographer, who told reporters on her wedding day she would try to curb Zioncheck's apparent mania for speed, was in the car with him when Motorcycle Policeman George Ellmore stopped him. She waited outside of police headquarters while her husband was inside making hurried calls to friends to post the money for his release.

The letter, addressed to Commissioner of Correspondence for the city and county of Albany, N. Y., is dated May 12, 1775. Don't Pet In Car But Okey On Street

(International News Service)

LEE, Mass.—Park and pet on the main street, but don't get caught petting in a moving automobile.

That was the warning given by Police Chief Frank T. Coughlin as the first days of spring sent many a young man's thoughts toward love.

"I'm not trying to stop something that has been going on long before we were born. I feel that if a fellow and a girl want to display their affections for each other, it should not be done in a moving automobile," he said, in a safety drive speech.

"I'd prefer them to do it on the main street. And I wouldn't bother them, either."

Dog Recovers His Master's Bicycle

(International News Service)

GREELEY, Colo.—As a sleuth, Bruno, A. O. Youth's dog, tops local operatives.

Youth's bicycle was stolen. Several days later, police received a complaint from a woman living on the outskirts of Greeley that a vicious dog had been lying in the weeds near her home, frightening children and challenging all comers.

Officers went to the scene and found the dog. Then they saw the stolen bicycle lying in the weeds beside him. After some difficulty with Bruno, they succeeded in removing both to the police station, where Youth claimed them.

Another way to preserve peace is to arm enough cops to keep the lawless from starting anything.

Hear More Protests On New Tax Measure

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Protests of business leaders against the alleged blighting effect of President Roosevelt's new $803,000,000 tax bill were heard today by the Senate Finance committee even while administration spokesmen urged a clarifying revision of the measure.

Senator Harrison (D) of Mississippi, committee chairman, urged treasury officials to redraft numerous sections of the bill so the legislation might become understandable to the average taxpayer. He echoed the protest of many critics in both parties that only a tax lawyer could explain the bill and that ordinary taxpayers would have to employ special counsel in order to comply with its provisions.

The request of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau for imposition of additional taxes to raise $334,000,000 more revenue than provided by the house bill meanwhile seemed to fall upon deaf senatorial ears. Only Senator Lafollette (P) of Wisconsin, showed any interest in this appeal. He favors imposing heavier normal and surtaxes on all incomes up to $50,000 and reduction of exemptions from $2,500 to $1,500 for married persons and from $1,000 to $800 for single persons.

Other tax authorities in the senate appeared to ignore Morgenthau's request, even though he merely reiterated the original request of President Roosevelt for a duplication of the outlawed processing taxes. Morgenthau suggested the Senate Finance committee reimpose the processing taxes but at lower rates and scattered across more commodities than the old AAA taxes. There appeared some disposition in the senate committee to approve the house's action in granting special classification to banks and insurance companies under the proposed new corporation taxes. This concession did not meet the approval of treasury officials. Senate tax experts however, said they felt the administration desired revenue and would not object to special treatment of banks and insurance companies, if the bill produced sufficient revenue.

The protest parade of business leaders was led by M. L. Seidman, chairman, taxation committee, New York Board of Trade, and Hugh Satterlee, chairman, taxation committee, New York City Bar association. Others to be heard during the day were Joseph Klein, of New York City, of the American Society of Certified Public Accountants; E. H. Lane, of Altavista, Va., Paul H. Wilson, of Worcester, Mass., Edgar M. Queeny, of St. Louis, R. C. Fulbright, of the Southern Pine association and George W. Elliott, of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce.

The public hearings will continue all next week. After that, the committee will retire into secret session to redraft the bill. Complete revision of all administrative sections, not now clear to laymen, seemed assured. There was little indication though of any material change in the tax structure of the bill since the administration is in control of the committee.

Charge W. P. A. Votes Are Used

Democratic Candidate For Congress In Pennsylvania Makes Charges

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 1.—A congressional row over administration of the WPA in Pennsylvania was seen today as support was given to the charge of Rep. Berlin that the relief setup was used to defeat him in the Pennsylvania Democratic primary.

Rep. Faddis, a Democrat, who won renomination for congress, declared that the votes of WPA workers were invoked against him as well as against Berlin.

"A large percentage of the WPA was used against me," said Faddis. "It is true that the WPA was used against Mr. Berlin.

"The WPA in Pennsylvania is top-heavy with white collar executives. They are more numerous than generals in a Mexican army.

"The WPA is headed by Harry L. Hopkins, a professional spender of other peoples' money. I favor the WPA as a means of relieving distress and unemployment, but I object to the manner in which it is being administered."

Faddis sought support among Pennsylvania members for a movement to give members of congress and local communities a greater voice in WPA affairs.

After signing a petition which made possible a vote on the Frazier-Lemke Inflation bill, which the administration has opposed, Berlin assailed Senator Guffey (D) of Pennsylvania and WPA management in his district.

SOLID MAHOGANY

According to Merton L. Gershun, Chicago furniture dealer, furniture made in Puerto Rico is mostly hand made and crude, but it is fashioned of solid mahogany, as that wood is plentiful in the island.

Eighteenth century mahogany furniture, according to the same authority, is selling very well at present.

Frazier-Lemke Bill May Reach Vote In House

Decisive Test Is Assured In House On Farm Inflation Bill

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Facing an issue packed with political dynamite, house leaders today looked to President Roosevelt for aid in defeating the Frazier-Lemke $3,000,000,000 Farm Inflation bill.

A decisive test was assured as the result of the action of 218 members, a majority, in signing a petition to discharge the rules committee from consideration of the measure.

Rep. Lemke (R) of North Dakota, co-author of the bill, planned to exercise his right to move on May 11 to discharge the committee, which has "pigeon-holed" the bill for months.

While action might be delayed by Parliamentary maneuvers, leaders indicated that they will meet the issue squarely.

The possibility of an open break between Mr. Roosevelt and the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin and his National Union for Social Justice was seen. The political fate of many house members also may rest on their vote.

Sponsors of the measure denied that it is inflationary. Under its terms, a revolving fund of $3,000,000,000 would be authorized to refinance $8,000,000,000 of farm mortgages at 1½ percent annual interest and 1½ percent principal repayment.

If bonds could not be sold, Federal Reserve notes would be issued with farm lands as backing. Sponsors declared that there is no danger of uncontrolled inflation because issuance of new money would be limited to $25 for each person.

Democrats Think Gov. Landon Will Be G. O. P. Choice

Jim Farley About Convinced That Governor Landon Has Necessary Strength

Kansas Executive Will Enter Convention With Plenty Of G. O. P. Supporters

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 1—Whatever some elements in the Republican party may think, the Democratic high command is convinced that Governor Alf M. Landon, of Kansas, will be President Roosevelt's opponent in this fall's campaign.

Postmaster General Jas. A. Farley, who doubles in brass as chairman of the Democratic national committee, told International News Service today, that, based on his political experience, he would judge the Kansas governor to be "in the bag" for the Republican presidential nomination.

Landon Has Strength

Farley pointed out that Landon virtually was in the same pre-convention position that Mr. Roosevelt enjoyed before his nomination in Chicago 1932.

"Landon has all the pre-convention strength and all the delegates," Farley said. "I don't see how he can be stopped for the Republican nomination."

Political observers in Washington generally held to this view, particularly following Landon's overwhelming "write-in" victory in the Massachusetts primary. It was certain that the Kansan would enter the Republican convention at Cleveland with far more votes than any other aspirant.

Extreme interest was being manifested in eastern political circles in the Republican primary which will be run off in California next Tuesday.

Factional Row

A victory for the Landon-pledged slate of delegates, it was conceded in most Republican quarters here, would just about clinch the Kansas governor's nomination.

On the other hand, these same Republican sources felt that even should the uninstructed slate win out in California, Landon still would be preponderently in the running.

As the eastern observers view the California situation at Long Range, a factional state party row will be settled next Tuesday with Landon either materially strengthening his pre-convention position as a result of the decision or not being too badly hurt if the ticket headed by Republican State Chairman Earl Warren should win out.

Arrest Man For Stealing Money

Abraham Wright, colored, employed on a truck, was arrested by Plain-Clothesman M. J. Young and Patrolman Peter Hillers this morning after Wright was alleged to have taken a bag containing about $15 from Phil Greer's cigar store when Greer's attention was attracted to the basement, where other truck employes were working. The money was recovered. He was charged with suspicion and was held at the city jail.

Pledging the New Deal to Higher Wages

New Civic Handbook Junior Chamber Goal

Benefit Show On May 9 Will Help Raise Fund For Publication

Presses will start turning out a well-prepared "New Castle Handbook" for convention guests and industrial leaders the nation over within a comparatively short time if funds realized from the May 9 benefit show of the KDKA staff artists at the Cathedral raises the money the junior chamber anticipates.

The junior chamber, sponsoring the benefit, announced:

"The 'handbook' will be a useful reference for anyone. We hope to give it a wide distribution in the hope that industrial representatives everywhere will see it. Its main purpose, of course, will be to attract attention to the advantages we can justly boast of here."

Bishop McDowell Opens Methodist Conference Today

Two Outstanding Proposals Confront Thousands Of Delegates To Conference

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., May 1.—Bishop William F. McDowell, Washington, D. C., today opened the thirty-second quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here with a prayer in which he said:

"We do not want to be so conservative that our faces will be turned backward.

"On the other hand, we are not here primarily to think about the world's material prosperity but about its righteousness."

Two Proposals

Two outstanding proposals confronted thousands of delegates from all corners of the world today as the thirty-second quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal church opened here. They were:

1. A proposal for organic union of the Methodist Episcopal church, the M. E. church, South, and the Methodist Protestant church.

2. A memorial of the Methodist federation for social service asking the general conference to "respect the method of struggle for profit as the economic base for society," and to "approve a planned economy with social ownership of things necessary for its successful operation."

Predict Passage

Leaders predicted early passage of the unification resolution which would then have to be acted upon by the other two branches, but the Methodist laymen's conference directed bitter criticism at both the second proposal and its sponsor.

Rev. Dr. Rembert Gilman Smith, Pryor, Okla., has charged the federation with "promoting revolution, of undermining the constitution and of being grossly un-Methodist."

A Southern California laymen's group memorialized the conference to require the clergy to refrain from using their pulpits to campaign for social-economic reforms.

12-Miles An Hour Brought A Fine

(International News Service)

HOUSTON, Texas—It may be pretty bad to get socked for going thirty-five in a speed trap, but listen to the tale of woe of Joe Imber, Houston building permit clerk.

Joe was buzzing along in his model T Ford at the terrific speed of twelve per, right down in the business district. A traffic cop gave chase, caught up with him and wrote out a ticket, on which twelve miles per hour was the specified speed.

Brought into court, Imber pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined fifty smackers.

However, this was about twenty years ago.

Perfect Secretary, Well, Here She Is

(International News Service)

BOSTON, May 1.—And now comes the perfect secretary!

Here, in the opinion of Prof. Harold J. Smith, head of the secretarial studies department at Boston University, is what she should be:

"The girl, who, if she falls in love with her boss, will move into another office."

If she continued work under the man she loved, Professor Smith believes "either the love affair or the business would suffer, and it naturally would be the business."

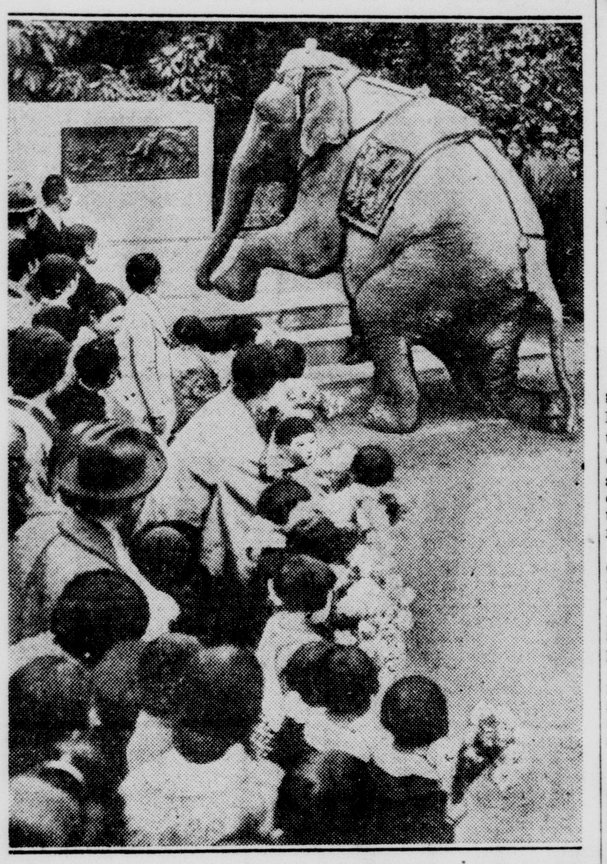

Hurts Ex-Wife's Case

William McCasland

One of the most dramatic scenes at the murder trial of Mrs. Velma Patterson at Greenville, Tex., was provided by the testimony of William (Vester) McCasland, a former husband, and father of the two children she is accused of poisoning to obtain insurance benefits. McCasland testified that he was present in his former wife's home when one of the girls died in agony.

Roosevelt Plans Week-End Cruise

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 1.—President Roosevelt will spend the week end crusining on the Potomac river and Chesapeake Bay. It will be his first week-end cruise of the year. Last summer Mr. Roosevelt devoted many week ends to cruising the same waters in the White House vessel, "Sequoia."

BIGAMY?

"I am engaged to a beautiful, intelligent girl."

"Congratulations! But which one do you intend to marry?"

ONE ON HIMSELF

Motorist—Hey, it's pretty fortunate for you this happened in front of a doctor's house.

Victim—Yeah—but I'm the doctor!

Opposition For Strong Navy Is Rising Rapidly

Both Democrats And Republicans Will Fight Appropriation Of $531,068,707

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Big guns of the congressional "Little Navy" bloc and Pacifist groups were trained today on the nation's largest peacetime naval appropriation as House Democratic leadership called for a special Saturday session to force the measure to passage in record time.

The bill provides $531,068,707 to operate the navy during the next fiscal year on a basis of a navy "second to none". It exceeds last year's figure by $47,337,328 but is $18,522,595 less than asked by the presidential budget.

Of the sum, $168,500,000 is earmarked for construction of 84 vessels, not including capital ships, to bring the navy up to treaty strength, and 333 new airplanes.

Opposition Appear

Opposition to the huge peacetime appropriation sprang up from both Democratic and Republican ranks. The principal point of contention arose from last minute inclusion at, its was understood, the president's request, provision for the laying down of keels for two new 35,000 ton battleships, estimated to cost $50,000,000 each, in the event "capital ship replacement construction is commenced by any other signatory power" to the London treaty.

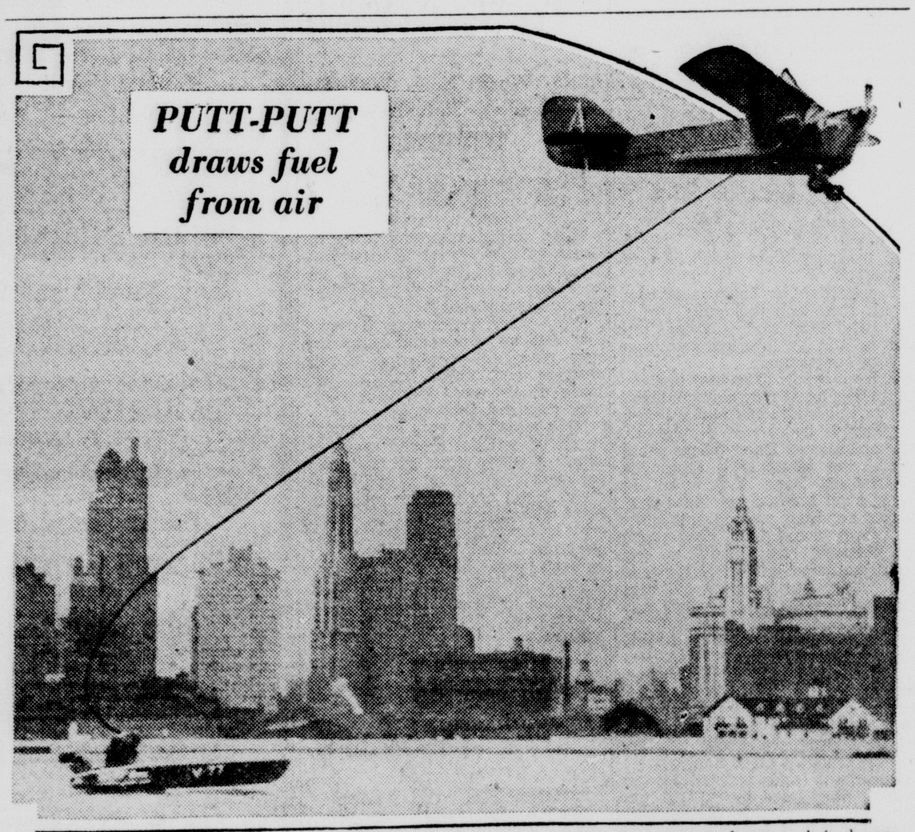

The capital shipbuilding proposal was injected to meet Great Britain's move to build two new battleships.

Rep. Marcantonio (R) of New York, will oppose the battleships construction provision. He struck at the administration for authorizing more than $1,000,000,000 in war and navy appropriations this year while slicing relief from the $4,880,000,000 of last year to $1,500,000,000 this year.

End of cord in Gum-Dipped Tire showing every fiber insulated with liquid rubber — End of cord from ordinary tire showing unprotected cotton fibers inside the cord

The body of the New Firestone High Speed Tire is made from selected long-staple cotton dipped in liquid rubber, absorbing eight pounds of rubber in every hundred pounds of cotton. This patented Gum-Dipping process insulates every fiber in every cotton cord, preventing internal friction which creates the heat so destructive to tire life, and giving to the tire added strength.

This heavy, broad, traction and non-skid tread is held to the cord body of the tire with Two Extra Layers of Gum-Dipped Cords, a patented construction, making the cord body and tread an inseparable unit.

A leading university in 2350 tire tests has found that the new, scientifically designed Firestone High Speed tread stops a car up to 25% quicker. Its super-traction and non-skid efficiency have also been proved in the famous Pike's Peak Race where for eight consecutive years it has been used on the winning cars.

Fail To Indict Brooklyn Lawyer

Hunterdon County Grand Jury Refuses To Indict Wendel For Kidnaping

(International News Service)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., May 1.—The Hunterdon county grand jury today declined to vote an indictment after hearing evidence in connection with Mrs. Anna Hauptmann's charge that Paul H. Wendel, disbarred Trenton lawyer, had kidnaped the Lindbergh baby.

Ellis Parker, Sr., Burlington county detective whose son is under indictment in Brooklyn for participation in the kidnaping of Wendel—a kidnaping the former attorney charges resulted in a "confession" to the Lindbergh abduction being extorted from him—testified before the grand jurors.

His secretary, Mrs. Anna Bading, also appeared as did James H. Kirkham, Mercer county detective who arrested Wendel, and Francis Madden, Brooklyn assistant district attorney.

Hopkins-Ickes Concel Proposed Conference Today

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 1.—A "peace conference" between Secretary of the Interior Ickes, as PWA administrator and Harry L. Hopkins, WPA chieftain, to agree upon details of a compromise in the fight to control the $1,500,000,000 relief funds congress is expected to approve was postponed today.

The postponement was at the request of Rep. Beiter (D) of New York, head of the house "PWA bloc," to enable the group to compile further information to lay before Ickes and Hopkins.

You can tell the natural loser His only method of answering an opponent is to call him hard names.

Rome Planning Big Celebration

Fall Of Addis Ababa Will Be Signal For Biggest Celebration In History

ROME, May 1—The Vatican consented today to the ringing of church bells throughout Italy as part of the celebration scheduled to coincide with announcement of the capture of Addis Ababa by the Italian armies.

As officials throughout the country perfected details of what probably will be one of the greatest celebrations in modern Italian history, the Vatican approved the church bell ringing, excepting only the bells of Vatican City itself, including the bells of St. Peter's, and the bells of the churches of St. John, St. Mary Major and St. Paul.

Relief Problem Is Biggest One For Legislature

Has Developed Into Both A Political And An Economic Issue In State

FIFTH ONE HELD IN FIVE YEAR PERIOD

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 1.—Molded in the depression's maelstrom, unemployment relief, a problem which has developed into a political as well as an economic issue, has been the outstanding reason for summoning special legislative sessions in Pennsylvania, a survey of the past 17 extraordinary sessions disclosed today.

Facing the 18th extra session on May 4, Pennsylvania's legislators for the fifth time in as many years must cope with the problem which has threatened to undermine the commonwealth's financial structure and strain party lines.

But, the survey revealed, Pennsylvania has weathered political and economic storms full and by throughout its history—as far back as 1791 when Gov. Thomas Mifflin summoned the state's first special session in Philadelphia to take action in strengthening the western frontier against "invaders."

Of the five special sessions called by Gov. Gifford Pinchot, four were directed chiefly at unemployment relief problems—in 1931, 1932, 1933 and 1934. With 17 points involved in Gov. George H. Earle's formal call, many of them considered delicate and controversial from party and constitutional points of view, the May 4 session is expected to last an unpredictable length of time.

It was significant, too, that after a lapse of almost 150 years, since August, 1797, when Gov. Thomas Mifflin called a special session, Pennsylvania's legislators will again consider prison and state institutional reform.

Financial matters and taxation have also held the interest of many special sessions. Gov. David Rittenhouse Porter in 1840, Gov. James Pollock in 1857, Gov. Samuel W. Pennypacker in 1906, and Governor Pinchot in 1926, 1931, 1932, 1933 and 1934, found it necessary to include taxation and financial measures in their special calls. Governor Earle, too, must consider many financial matters; in particular, revenue bills to meet the current deficit and to provide for unemployment relief.

More accute is the problem this year because of the devastating results of St. Patrick's Day flood.

Many causes for special sessions have passed into history, never, perhaps, to repeat because of the changing order. Frontiers have disappeared and Pennsylvania is now the "workshop of the nation." Warring foes no longer threaten territorial integrity.

In 1793, Gov. Thomas Mifflin convoked a special session to deal with "defending the port and river Delaware" and again in 1794 to act against the "whiskey insurrection." One of Governor Mifflin's four special sessions included prison reform.

With the impending Civil War, Gov. Andrew Curtin in 1861 summoned an extra session "to adopt such measures as seem best with the appearance of the rebellion." He again called one in 1864 to strengthen the state's military power.

And as a member of the 13 original states, Pennsylvania witnessed the saga of the nation's constitutional development and session were necessary to pass legislation to fit the state's laws with those of the nation.

Gov. Thomas McKean in 1800 called the legislators in Lancaster to provide for choice of presidential electors, in 1883 Gov. Robert Pattison summoned a session to apportion the state into senatorial and representative districts. In 1936, the state must decide on if and how it will comply with the recent federal social security legislation.

One other session, called by Governor Pattison in 1891, was held only by the senate to investigate alleged fraud of the auditor general and state treasurer at that time.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

JERSEY BREEDERS ASSOCIATION

The constitution and by-laws for the Western Pennsylvania Jersey Breed Improvement association were adopted at a meeting of the board of directors in the Extension Office in Butler, April 22.

Membership is limited to Jersey breeders in Beaver, Butler, Lawrence and Mercer counties who have had their herds tested and reactors removed or applications made for the blood test to eradicate Bang's disease, and who are securing records of production on each animal in their herd through the herd test, register of merit, or cow testing association.

These progressive Jersey breeders have set up the following objectives: Sponsoring of and proving dairy sires, disease control, butterfat testing, 4-H Calf club work, as well as serving as an agency for the sale of surplus Jersey cattle.

Summer activities have been planned to include picnics, classification of the representative herds in each county as a basis for the member's rating of individual animals, the promotion of testing for health and production, and an advertising program to promote the sale of surplus cattle.

Officers and directors include: president, Harry McCurley, Enon Valley; vice-president, L. D. Westlake, Beaver; secretary-treasurer, W. I. Blake, Mercer; directors, J. C. McCandless of Butler, S. S. Cleland of Portersville, N. E. Sampson of Volant and J. Baker of Grove City.

This organization was established at a recent meeting of Jersey breeders of the four counties in London grange hall in Mercer county on March 24.

INSECTS APPEAR ON FLOWERING PLANTS

Cool temperatures of the past few weeks have retarded the development of flowering plants but have not delayed the appearance of insects which usually are expected early in the season.

In some sections aphids already have appeared on tulips. They may be expected on other succulent perennials as new growth develops.

Plant lice also have been favored by the cool temperatures. Gardeners who discover these pests should be prepared to spray or dust with nicotine to kill the lice before they increase in serious numbers.

These and other insects are described and control measures suggested in Circular 161 "Insects Attacking Ornamental Flowering Plants" which may be obtained from the Agricultural Extension office, 206 Post Office building, New Castle, Pa.

KILL TENT CATERPILLARS BY USING LEAD ARSENATE

Egg masses of the eastern tent caterpillar which has caused so much damage in the past two or three years, will be hatching as the ends of the opening buds are showing green and expanding to one-fourth to one-half inch.

In apple orchards the usual delayed dormant spray which contains three pounds of lead arsenate in 100 gallons of spray will kill the early hatching caterpillars. Later spray will prevent further damage.

Other kinds of trees, valued as ornamentals, should receive similar treatment.

GROW HERBS IN GARDEN FOR FLAVOR AND AROMA

Culinary herbs have again become popular in many home gardens. Generally they are used in small quantities for adding flavor or aroma to dishes and are not usually profitable to the commercial grower.

A well-drained garden soil is suited to most herbs, but the mints, pennyroyal, angelica and lovage grow better on a rather moist soil. A rather dry soil is preferred for balm, hoarhound, lavender, savory and terragon to bring out their characteristic odor and flavor. Fennel and rosemary grow best on a well-limed soil.

Propagation by cuttings is commonly used with the mints, pennyroyal and terragon, by divisions with chives, and by layering with sage, savory and thyme.

A fresh supply of parsley and certain other herbs may be had all year by starting additional plants late in summer to be carried through the winter indoors. Dried foliage is best when the plants are thoroughly cleaned and hung in a warm dry place until entirely dry. The dried leaves are then crushed and stored in tightly closed jars. Seed should be obtained from plants or seed heads gathered just before the seeds fall. They are threshed out after the seed heads have become quite dry. After drying for a week in thin layers, preferably on a cloth tray, they are stored in glass jars.

Dill is an annual plant, popularly known for its use in pickling cucumbers. The seeds are sown early in the spring and the plants gathered in midsummer—about two and one-half months after planting.

Spearmint and peppermint are readily propagated by cuttings and grow well in moist, fertile soil with partial shade. A winter supply may be assured by planting clumps in a hotbed in the fall.

Parsley is a popular garden plant and may be grown in almost any soil. The seed must be started early in the spring and if protected the plants will yield a supply of green cuttings all winter.

Spring Best Time For War On Weeds

Little Work Now Will Do Wonders, State Botanist Asserts

HARRISBURG, May 1.—Now is the time for all good gardeners to fight the weeds.

Early spring, according to E. M. Gress, botanist for the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, is the best time for removing weeds from lawns, gardens and fields.

Weed seeds which were scattered last fall by winds and rains are now ready to germinate. Spring showers and warm weather will bring up the weed seerlings wherever they can find root.

This seeding is very easy to kill before it develops a good root system. A little work in the early spring will kill them by the thousands. Hand methods are most efficient, although in some cases weeds may be controlled by spraying. For example, chick weed may be sprayed with iron sulphate, two pounds to one gallon of water, which is sufficient to spray 1,000 square feet. This will not injure the grass.

Italian Invents 'Land Canoe'

(International News Service)

ROME, May 1.—Now all landlubbers who would like to row but are afraid of drowning can satisfy their wish on land. But they'd better be careful of automobiles.

So far only boats have been rowed, but Umberto Bozzoli of Rome has invented a land vehicle which is propelled by oars.

The "Land Canoe" as the inventor calls it, consists of a small canoe seating one person, placed on four wheels. Two cars, one on each side of the "boat" propel and steer the contraption.

Avert Strike Of Hard Coal Miners

Negotiations On Wage Agreement To Be Resumed In New York

GOVERNMENT NOW SUPERVISES PARLEY

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 1—With the threat of a strike in definite abeyance, the joint committees of anthracite mine operators and the United Mine Workers of America were to resume negotiations today in an effort to arrive at a new wage agreement, to replace the one which expired last midnight.

From now on, however, the negotiations will be conducted under the auspices of the federal government.

Less than two hours before last midnight, when the miners were scheduled to suspend operations with the termination of the contract of August 8, 1930, a temporary pact, under which the miners will continue in their jobs pending the outcome of renewed negotiations, was formulated.

The pact, which has 30 days to run, was drawn up by the two factions at the express behest of Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady, who flew here from Washington late yesterday to halt a walkout in the hard coal industry.

McGrady will sit in on the negotiations between the mine workers and the operators today.

APPLE BLOSSOMS WILL OPEN SOON

SHATTERED GLASS

The Story of a Boy and a Girl and a Great Love Which Fate Decreed Should Not Endure

by

Phyllis Moore Gallagher

McClure Fiction

Illustrated by SKRENDA

She did not know what the girl had said, but within herself Melisse felt a surge of jealousy . . . .

WHEN evening came and the twilight began to fall from the unbelievably pure Alpine sky Melisse went out of the Burgen - Waldenegg Haus to stand for a little while alone in the soft dusk. Behind her the windows of the hotel were open and she heard her mother's voice, and the voices of the others there, talking in English and French and German. In Melisse's mind were thoughts as confused as the sounds of the contrasting languages she heard. Leaning her slim young shoulders against the wood and plaster wall of the old hotel, she pressed the heels of her heavy buckskin shoes into the bright grass as if to steady her balance, and stuffed her hands into the patch pockets of her light tweed coat.

It was not a posed position, not the studied grace she had been taught at Madame Martineau's School in Paris. Yet the Austrian guide who came up the path toward her saw the girl and murmured to himself, "These rich Americans are charming in their very carelessness. Look at that one. She is beautiful even when she rests . . ."

Melisse was staring toward the Gross Venediger all white and cold and black fir against the twilight sky, but she saw neither the great peak nor the goats on the crags nor the daisies in the grass that sloped away from her. They were all there and Melisse's eyes were open, but when she tried to see—she wanted desperately to see instead of to think — things seemed to beat against her in a confusion that left her powerless.

A few feet from her inside the open window sat Melisse's mother sipping wine and making plans for the marriage next month. She knew that across the table from her mother was Baron Hans von Holphertzuan listening attentively, his eyes windowed-in behind strong lenses, his long pleasant face nodding as her mother talked. She heard Hans say in his proper English:

"I shall make Melisse very happy, Mrs. Sturtevant. In Washington I only wanted to, but now, here in my own country on my own mountains, I know I can. I have never seen anyone so changed, so different, so—"

So resigned, Melisse thought. And she knew she had been resigned from the moment her mother had come toward her, across the glistening surface of the ballroom at the Austrian Legation in Washington, with Baron Hans von Holphertzuan in her wake. Hans had been resplendent in his uniform and gold braid, but Melisse had seen only the long pleasant looking face and the mild brown eyes behind their round little windows.

And Melisse remembered that at the moment she had turned toward Hans she had accidentally struck the elbow of the waiter who was offering her champagne—and the glass lay shattered on the floor. For one instant she and the man had stared into each other's eyes. The blood had stirred warm and quick in her veins and she had turned as if in fear to her mother and Hans.

Mrs. Sturtevant had waved the fan that she had carried at her presentation in Buckingham Palace, and to Melisse that simple gesture carried the air of a conquering banner fluttering over a battlefield. Mrs. Sturtevant had said, too grandly:

"Melisse, darling, the Baron says he has been wanting to meet my débutante daughter . . ." Melisse knew what lay behind her mother's words; there was something about her face that told her: "This is your chance. He has prestige—and money! I expect you to do your best. We are practically paupers now . . . your début took the last."

SO MELISSE had looked up at Hans and had known with the intuition that comes from being the descendant of a long line of belles that her piquant charm had caused his eyes to move dark and secret over her face. And still she had failed. Instead of doing her best with the Baron she had done her worst. As she spoke her breath had been short in her throat and her attention had been, not on the Baron, but on a waiter bending over shattered glass; a waiter whose hair was the washed gold of the champagne that glistened on the crystal fragments.

That winter, after Hans had been recalled to Vienna, the dramatic Mrs. Sturtevant had wandered from room to room in her massive residence near Sheridan Circle wringing her jeweled hands and beseeching the silent ancestral portraits in their prodigious gilt frames to send upon her foolish daughter just one ounce of Sturtevant perspicacity and Abercrombie common sense.

On June first there had come a letter from Hans, very formal and white with his gold crest at the top of the page, inviting them to Vienna. The political tension that had called him home seemed to have abated and he had been promised a span of weeks he wanted to divide between town and the Alps. Mrs. Sturtevant was enchanted—until she found in the same mail firm notices from the gas and electric companies announcing that, reluctant as they were to advise her of the fact, their services were at an end. That wasn't all; there were other bills, and threats of suits, and finally she came to an offer from a real estate firm that wanted her imposing house of marble and old-fashioned plumbing at a figure far below its worth for a South American Embassy. Who but a nation could maintain such a house in these times? Mrs. Sturtevant had seized the telephone.

So they had sailed on the Ile de France, first class of course. Hans had met them at Le Havre, his face flushed with eager plans for Vienna and the mountains. He had decided upon Gross Venediger. He had not spoken to either of them then of marriage but Melisse had seen the thought in his eyes. She had shuddered in the brilliant morning sunshine and Hans, not knowing, had helped her into her expensive light tweed coat. She would always be shuddering, she had thought, and Hans, never understanding, would always be helping her into one light tweed coat after another.

Melisse shuddered now and would have turned and gone into the inn but someone stood beside her, and a voice said softly to her in English:

"Pardon me, Miss Sturtevant, but you couldn't be cold. Or perhaps you do not like the air of our Austrian mountains? . . Have you ever seen a more glorious summer sunset?"

Melisse turned slightly and saw a tall young man bronzed by the sun, his blond head bare and his Tyrol cap in his hand. He called me by my name! she thought; this is too fantastic! And then she saw his eyes, and suddenly she was back in Washington with a shattered champagne glass on the marble floor at her feet.

When she did not speak the guide held his impudent little hat against his green jacket and bowed from the waist.

"I beg your pardon," he said in a low voice. "I am sorry if I have offended you." He turned to go.

NO!" Melisse said quickly, hoping those in the room behind her could not hear. "You have not offended me. I was only thinking—and I should rather not think for a while."

The guide fingered the rope around his waist and looked into her face. That there was a throbbing in his temples Melisse did not know, but her own nails dug into the palms of her hands in the pockets of her light tweed coat. Then he said:

"If you wish to climb the glacier tomorrow . . . you know there is something about a height that brings one closer to God, and the air is as fresh as the first day of the world. One does not have to think up there—and with a guide there is no danger."

Suddenly she was frightened; it was fantastic, too fantastic to believe. She said evenly:

"My fiancé, Baron von Holphertzuan has arranged a party to begin the climb of Gross Venediger tomorrow at dawn. I am sure he has guides. But my mother and I shall go only a little way, perhaps to the first hut. We are not used to your mountains; we could never keep up with the others—"

Her voice trailed away. Why was she explaining this to him?

"It is not safe to go even to the first hut on Gross Venediger without a guide," the man said. "I am free tomorrow morning." There was something almost eager in his voice. And suddenly Melisse smiled. "My mother and I will be ready," she said softly, "at dawn."

A LITTLE after dawn Melisse and Mrs. Sturtevant and Kurt von Rudiger, the guide, set out for Gross Venediger. Over an hour ago Hans and his party with three Tyrol guides had left the hotel on the long and dangerous trek up snow and ice.

They walked slowly through the spongy fields still wet with ice-edged dew, Mrs. Sturtevant first and then Melisse and Kurt von Rudiger respectfully in the rear. Finally they began to climb the circular rocky path to the first hut. Mrs. Sturtevant was easily winded and quick to get overheated. She threw back her several sweaters and wiped her face with a lacy wisp of handkerchief.

When they were quite a distance up the circular mountain path Mrs. Sturtevant threw up her hands, tossed her pack off of her back and sank wearily to a rock. She said firmly to Melisse, "I won't move another inch!"

Melisse stopped, too, gazing unseeingly upon the top of her mother's absurd Tyrol hat. She said, sympathetically, "Does it get you too frightfully, dear?" And then glancing shyly at Kurt, suddenly feeling her heart moving, the blood rushing from the farthest corners of her body to flush her cheeks, she asked, "Shall we go on? At least to the first hut. If mother doesn't mind being alone for a little while." She turned back to Mrs. Sturtevant. "You don't mind waiting for us, do you, Mother? I want so dreadfully to go on and on!"

They did not climb very far before Melisse felt the pounding in her ears from the height. Or was it Kurt's eyes on her back that gave her that dizzy sense of rapture?

She found a jagged piece of rock and sat on it, thrusting out her legs before her. She fumbled in her pockets for a cigarette but before she found it Kurt handed her one and bent low with a lighted match. The flame spurted and flickered and died altogether and Kurt struck another on the rock and bent still closer.

MELISSE revolved the cigarette in her fingers until the printing showed on the side. "American cigarettes. Aren't they rather expensive for—" she stopped. She hadn't meant it in an unkind way.

His eyes laughed into hers. He was finding it good to be there with her alone and talking and drawing smoke into his lungs.

"They are expensive. But I do not have to count my schillings so carefully now," he said. "I graduated from Graz this year and I get a post at the Creditanstalt in September. I am much pleased. My father's friends proposed me."

He saw the surprise in Melisse's face. He could talk with her now.

"First a waiter at the Austrian Legation and then a guide in the Tyrols!" He laughed. "It probably seems very strange to you. But my party sent me to Washington. We have many political factions in Austria now. My father was an army officer, and the war impoverished my family when I was very young. But you—you would not understand poverty, Miss Sturtevant."

Melisse laughed, too. "Oh, yes, I do!" she said.

Quite simply then she told him of the house that had been sold, of last winter when most of the rooms were cold, and of the bills. She told him of the Baron's invitation, of her betrothal, of her mother's ambitions for the marriage. When she had finished, she pressed the glowing butt of her cigarette against the rock so hard that the small fire mashed to her finger and burned her a little.

"Then you do not love Baron von Holphertzuan?"

"No," she said. "I do not. I am sorry and ashamed . . . but I do not."

"You are very honest," he said.

THEY stopped at a hut before turning back for wine and hard brown bread and Swiss cheese. A mountain girl, rather beautiful in wide cobalt skirts and a laced velvet waist heavy with peasant embroidery, bowed them into the small bare room. She led Melisse to a table by the roaring fire and served her well. Then she hurried refreshments to Kurt at another table, for the guides sat apart from their parties, and stood there while he ate and drank, her blonde head tossing from side to side in the exuberance of her speech. They spoke in German and Melisse did not know what words the girl had said to make a wave of happiness spread over his face.

But within herself Melisse felt a surge of annoyance, even of jealousy, and when Kurt came to her and they started off again down the mountain she felt cross and silent. As if reading her mind, Kurt said, "I find Jöanna very pretty and amusing. Living close to God makes her . . ." Melisse swung around on her flat heels, the sudden tears in her eyes blinding her, her lips opened to say "I don't wish to hear of Jöanna . . ." But then she was in Kurt's arms and his cheek was pressed warm and close to hers and he was whispering, "Melisse! . . .Melisse!" as if he had been calling her that always. And when she did not resist, but clung to him instead, he kissed her lips. His kiss was gentle but it flamed fierce and quivering down through her body, making her weak when she had meant to be so strong.

After a long while, he said, "Jöanna told me that she saw love in your eyes, Melisse. Living close to the sky keeps her mind clear and her senses keen. I hadn't dared to hope that you would ever care. It took me a week before I could get enough courage to speak to you last evening at the door of the hotel."

Somewhere in the distance a guide called out as he leapt dangerous fissures of snow. Far below them the cerulean maze of summer rose against the mountain and melted into a mist of defeat before the cold breath of Gross Venediger. But Melisse was conscious only of Kurt's arms holding her close.

Kurt said, "We shall always be happy together, Melisse."

She pressed her warm face to his cheek. "We shall always be happy," she repeated. "Nothing can stop that now. Nothing."

They whispered rapturously of plans. They would be married at once; she would tell her mother and Hans. She would tell them at the same time for her mother would need Hans in that dreadful moment of frustrated ambition. Kurt had a party of English teachers for that afternoon and a group of Americans for tomorrow at dawn. The latter would consume half his day, and when he returned Melisse would be waiting for him—free.

MELISSE stood that night in the still darkness near the door of the Burgen-Waldenegg Haus leaning against the framework. The heels of her heavy buckskin shoes were pressed into the short grass as if to steady her balance, and her hands were stuffed into the pockets of her light tweed coat. She had stood that way last evening, only now her eyes were anxious instead of wistful.

In the great distance she watched the torches of the mountain climbers descending slowly to earth like sparks of fire from the sky. Hans was returning, and some place behind him on the snow were undoubtedly Kurt and his English party. Melisse felt the blood rush through her body. Kurt. Her Kurt.

Behind her the door of the hotel opened and Mrs. Sturtevant appeared with a lighted candle in her hand. "I never saw anyone so excited in my life!" she said. "And just think! Back in Washington you didn't even want to see Hans when the Legation was only a stone's throw from our house! Now you can't wait until Hans gets here!" She sniffed copiously of the air blowing cold and fresh from the Gross.

And then Hans came running up through the grassy pastures, his glasses catching the lights of the hotel so that she could not see his eyes.

It seemed to Melisse that there was too much commotion and talking as the guides hurried around behind the Hans. Melisse pressed her hand to her heart. "I'll tell mother and Hans now," she thought. "I won't wait until tomorrow. When Kurt comes tonight I'll be ready to go!"

Hans took Melisse in his arms and kissed her cheek lightly. "What a day! What a day!" he said and looked not at all like a man who had conquered a peak of Gross Venediger.

Confusion was spreading through the hotel. The faces of guests were pressed against the windowpanes, excited by the news of a catastrophe that chilled them. One man in Hans' party, whipping the snow from his flanks said, "And we were there just a few minutes before they fell . . . poor devils. And that chap! God! what a brave attempt he made to save them!"

Melisse's heart stopped beating. An inner stillness pervaded her. "What has happened, Hans? What . . . has . . . happened?"

Hans looked at her oddly. "The English party," he said. "A horrible thing, my dear, and I sha'n't let you hear of it! I sha'n't tell you any of the dreadful details!"

Mrs. Sturtevant cried: "Melisse! That guide we had yesterday! He lost his life trying to save the teachers!"

The stars that hung like frost flowers in the crystal blue of the night sky fell before Melisse's eyes and lay like shattered glass on her vision . . . shattered glass . . . shattered glass . . . The cattle bells of the mountains beat a dirge in her ears. She whispered, "Kurt . . . Oh, Kurt!" and the name was an agonized prayer wrung from her heart.

"Yes, that's his name, Melisse!" said Mrs. Sturtevant, clicking her tongue against her teeth. "He looked like such a nice young chap, that Kurt, so handsome and all. And bright, too, I'd say. But we can just thank our lucky souls that it wasn't Hans! Why, Melisse, it might have been Hans! My, my, my!"

And Hans seeing Melisse's face so alarmingly pale and the terrific shudder that wracked her small body, fastened her light tweed coat close around her throat. She would always be shuddering, she thought, and Hans, never understanding, would always be fastening one light tweed coat after another around her.

Will Ask Funds For School Aid

About $3,000,000 To Be Asked At Coming Special Legislative Session

SUBSIDIES ARE OWED DISTRICTS

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 1.—To relieve critical financial conditions in school districts throughout the commonwealth, the department of public instruction will ask for an appropriation approximating $3,000,000 in the forthcoming special session of the legislature, International News Service learned today.

The department, running far behind in meeting its school subsidy obligations because of the state treasury's strained circumstances, asked Gov. George H. Earle to include the subject of school financing in his call for the session. It has now estimated needs of the department at nearly $3,000,000.

Some school districts have not received their subsidies for several months. Latest available information disclosed that the state treasury owes more than $12,000,000 to these districts in liabilities past due. Relief for these districts was asked by state school officials to prevent the closing of schools that was threatened in a few instances.

Although state revenue heads said the $3,000,000 estimate might be pared down somewhat by re-budgeting of school funds, it was reported even under these circumstances the estimate would be well in excess of $2,000,000.

WHAT YOU EAT HAS A LOT TO DO WITH HOW YOU FEEL

Correction of Constipation* Is Often a Matter of Menus

For years, the medical profession has insisted that proper diet is more effective in promoting health than the indiscriminate use of patent medicines. Today, they are seeing their teachings bear fruit.

For instance, millions of families have learned that common constipation is largely due to insufficient "bulk" in meals. Many of them correct this condition by the regular use of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

This delicious cereal supplies generous "bulk" in effective form. Within the body, its "bulk" absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass. Gently this clears out the intestinal wastes.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and contains iron. It may be served as a cereal with milk or cream, or cooked into tempting muffins, breads, etc.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Stubborn cases may require ALL-BRAN oftener. If not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all"—but it does correct common constipation.* It is guaranteed by the Kellogg Company. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Prefer Mongrels To Thoroughbreds

(International News Service)

BOSTON—In Dogdom, the mongrel is a better pet than the thoroughbred.

That is the opinion of members of the Animal Rescue League.

To prove it, they point to their records. The spring rush for dog pets is under full swing. Hundreds of requests have been received for dogs. And among them is not a single one for a pure-blooded canine.

Part this and part that and a mixture of something else doesn't matter to those looking for a pet. All they want is "a lotta dog."

Superintendent John Finlayson claims that many visitors have told him that the mongrel is far better suited as an all-around pet than the blue-bloods.

68 New Alphabets For Soviet Russia

(International News Service)

MOSCOW—Sixty-eight new alphabets, together with typewriters to type them and shorthand systems for stenographers, have been invented in the U. S. S. R. during the past ten years, according to the Council of Nationalities now meeting in the Kremlin.

The alphabets were required for the languages spoken by 25,000,000 Soviet citizens of various races living in remote parts of the U. S. S. R., and all hitherto illiterate.

The Latin alphabet was used as the basis of the new alphabets. Symbols were added to represent sounds unknown to the Indo-European group of languages. Books and periodicals are now regularly printed in these tongues which had never before been written down.

Billion Persons Can't Read, Write

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore.—There are at least a billion persons alive today who can neither read nor write their names, according to Dr. Frank C. Laubach, member of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions.

Speaking before the City club here, Dr. Laubach said that India has 340,000,000 illiterates, and that Africa has at least as many more. Many of these people, he said, do not even know the name of the country in which they live.

Education is rapidly making progress in the Phillippines, according to Dr. Laubach.

Woman Lives 4 Years On "Cracker and Milk Diet"

A well-known woman says she had to limit her diet to graham crackers and milk for FOUR years because ordinary food would almost double her up in pain, due to stomach gas and indigestion. Now, this woman is among hundreds in this city who praise the new, double-acting stomach alkalizer, called WHITE SWALLOW—a scientific formula of FOUR different remedies for stomach distress. This lady was amazed when she took WHITE SWALLOW. She eats what she wants now; no gas or bloating; never has cramps; also got relief from heartburn. Says she feels "like a new person".

Acts At Once

WHITE SWALLOW neutralizes acids in the stomach, expels gas, relieves pain, bloat, swelling and headaches. Relief comes immediately. It is not habit-forming like soda; it is pleasant to take and it settles the stomach at once.

Costs A Penny

Best of all, WHITE SWALLOW costs so little, less than 1c a dose. So it would be a mistake to go on suffering. We are recommending this new, scientific remedy because we know it has helped so many.

CROWD GATHERS AT LOUISVILLE FOR DERBY

Brevity Still Remains Horse Of The 'Hour'

Notables Will Attend Annual Classic At Churchhill Downs Saturday

RAIN MAY CAUSE "HEAVY" TRACK

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 1—Westward, northward, southward, eastward and from intermediate points, the eternal tide of a nation took its course into town today for the sixty second running of the Kentucky derby at Churchill Downs late tomorrow afternoon, an annual invasion that usually piles up about half the people on the gutters and the rest in them. This time, it looked a bit like an "off" crowd, probably because of the stock market tremors, there being some hotel cancellations and the croupiers at the night spots having the unhappy look of men who, unexpectedly, are asked to endure their own boredom.

Notables Attend

But on the surface, anyhow, it was the same old day-before atmosphere. Cars with distant license plates, formed an endless queue down Fourth street from the city limits. The airport and the railroad depot were overrun. Jim Farley, the administration's ambassador to Churchill Downs, was an expected arrival. So was Premier Hepburn; likewise Governor Horner, of Illinois.

In fact, the only thing that seemed sure not to arrive before nigh fall was an honest opinion on the seventeen possible and fourteen probable starters in the derby. The boys, in other words, weren't waiting for the old May Pole dance at Bryan Mawr this afternoon; they were doing it in front of the Brown Hotel last night, only here they call it the run-around. Anyhow, it's beginning to look now as though the hottest tip on the derby is going to come from the weather bureau.

Rained Wednesday

It rained here on Wednesday. It rained again on Thursday. The weather sharks say it is going to rain some time today, the result being that everybody is taking an exception for every choice they name. Most of them continue to say Brevity, if and provided—it doesn't keep raining for the next twenty four hours. The track is heavier than a sinner's conscience right now and fast runners like Brevity, Indian Broom, He Did and Perhaps Sangreal, who have been working close to the track record for 3-4 and 7-8 of a mile, might figure to lose this particular edge in the muck.

Indian Broom Good

Indian Broom, of course, has showed that he runs in the wet, but he's a little horse and 126 make a large total of pounds.

On the other hand, the come-from-behinders, namely, Bold Venture, Coldstreams, which can run on any track; Teufel, Grand Slam, a definite mudder; Sangreal Again, Forest Play, which likes its mud, and the fighter will have to be figured on an off track.

Brevity still is getting the play as ranking favorite but, if horse raising teaches anything except the profound folly of the thing, it is this: when in doubt around a Kentucky derby, look out for E. R. Bradley.

Watch Bien Joli

He came down here from Lexington talking about Banister. But by now everybody else is talking guardedly but with a certain respect about Bien Joli. The colonel is quite a man at stealing the show any time the boys begin to weaken on their original choices and start babbling about an open race, openly arrived at. Barring the fact that Trainer Pete Coyne continues to insist that Brevity can run in anything from a sand pit to a field of clover, there doesn't seem much to steal here, at that.

"The rules require everybody to approach the president with empty hands." And expect him to fill them.

TALES IN TIDBITS

Rassle Dazzle
Peacock Falters
Gulotta Due?

By BILL BRAUCHER
Central Press Sports Editor

Herr Shikat seems to have upset the apple cart for the wrestlers . . . by throwing Danno O'Mahoney and winning what is generally referred to as the world's heavyweight championship. As I get it, something like this happened:

Mosieur Jacques Curley, chief keeper of the pachyderms, suspected Shikat of ambitions before the O'Mahoney match . . . so Senor Alvarez, one of Monsieur Curley's associates, insisted that Shikat post $18,000 guarantee that he would look out of the window in his match with Danno. . . . Alvarez also demanded a contract stipulating that in event Shikat became champion he (Shikat) would split a percentage of his earnings with Alvarez.

Well, Shikat sat on Misther O'Mahoney, as Curley feared, and Alvarez tried to enforce the contract by seeking an injunction against Shikat forbidding him to wrestle unless he (Shikat) gave Alvarez his slice.

Enter Ali Baba

After a great deal of legal pushing-the-middle-valve-down. Herr Shikhat passed along the title to a third party, one Ali Baba (the man of 1,001 faces), in Detroit, and got himself hurt in the bargain . . . now that Herr Shikat hasn't the title, an injunction against him doesn't mean anything. But, aside to Ali Baba: Be careful, Ali Baba, or some big bad goblin will get you if you don't watch out!

Olympic chances of Eulace Peacock, Temple negro runner and jumper, have dimmed since the Penn Relays . . . it seems Eulace is subject to cramps in his right thigh, and Ben Ogden, his track coach, warned him before the Penn meet to quit in the middle of a race if he felt the cramps coming . . . running in the quarter-mile relay, Eulace felt the cramps coming and stopped cold turkey, saving his leg from possible injury but casting serious doubt upon his athletic future.

Mary, The Mermaid

One who seems certain of Olympic selection is little Mary Hoerger, 12-year-old Florida diving prodigy. . . . Mary was the first to announce her entry in the women's national championships to be held June 25 to 28, at Manhattan Beach, N. Y.

This may be Tony Gulotta's year to win the 500-mile piston derby at Indianapolis on Memorial Day . . . only one man has whirled over more miles of Indianapolis bricks than Gulotta, who has driven 3,630 miles in 10 years of trying for the speed prize. . . . De Palma's mileage of 4,061 may be broken by Gulotta this year. . . . Gulotta appeared to be the winner in 1931 when running second to Billy Arnold . . . Arnold's car went over the wall, leaving Gulotta in the lead with 95 miles to go . . . on the next lap Gulotta's car hit oil spilled in the Arnold smash-up . . . and he skidded into failure.

Cubs Are Making Determined Bid For 1936 Flag

Chicago Cubs Are Showing Much Dash And Pep In First Month

Pirates Topple Phils As Brubaker Crashes Homer, Yanks Top Indians

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 1.—There's no telling on May 1 what the baseball situation will be in September, as some one probably has remarked before, but it might be worthy to note for future reference that Gabby Hartnett and the rest of the Chicago Cubs are making threatening gestures.

In the last few games the Cubs have moved from the gloom in the vicinity of the National League cellar into second place, a half game behind the leading New York Giants. And Hartnett has done much of the spark-plugging.

At the not too tender age of 35, the veteran of 14 seasons in the big show has compiled a batting average of .315 to date and is catching with all the vigor of his youth.

Hartnett Wins Game

On Wednesday old Gabbo drove in the only run of the game and started a smart, rally-nipping double play to help beat the Dodgers, 1 to 0.

Yesterday, he smacked a homer in the eighth inning to tie the Dodgers, 1 to 1. English then won the ball game, 2 to 1, in the 11th with a long fly that brought Demaree home and gave Tex Carleton a seven-hit decision over Ed Brandt, who allowed 11 hits.

While the Cubs were thus carrying on, the Giants were being manhandled again by the gashouse gang at St. Louis, 3 to 2. Although Paul Dean gave the Giants 11 hits, he scattered them, and was further helped by Mize's homer. Smith lost the decision.

Pirates Win

Big Jim Weaver scored his third victory for Pittsburgh, humbling the Phillies, 6 to 5. Brubaker hit a homer with two Pirates aboard the bases and Watkins drove in one runner when he conencted for the Phils.

Danny MacFayden, a Cincinnati castoff, whipped his old mates for the Boston Bees, 3 to 1. Hal Lee's double in the sixth clinched the game.

Yanks Top Indians

The Boston Red Sox smacked the Chicago White Sox around by 16 to 4, and a sample of nearly everything was dished up in the game—a triple play by the White Sox, five errors in all, 31 hits, and the delivery of six different pitchers.

The New York Yankees completed a clean sweep of their three game series with the Cleveland Indians on the neat hurling of Monte Pearson, who allowed only four hits and won by 8 to 1.

With a rally in the ninth, Washington broke a deadlock and made it two in a row over Detroit, 8 to 7, and the Philadelphia Athletics swept their third straight with the St. Louis Browns, 12 to 8. Puccinelli helped the A's with a double and four singles.

Mahoning A. A. To Battle Wampum In Pre-Season Tilt

Game Will Be Played Sunday Afternoon At E. & A. Field At 2:30 O'clock

Nick Cangey, manager of the Mahoning A. A. baseball team of the Lawrence County league today announced the signing of Wampum for a pre-season game at the E. & A. field Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. This will be a practice game for both of the county league teams.

The Mahonings will be under the supervision of Mike Orlando and Carmen Picarro. The Mahoning will have a practice session tonight and Saturday at the E. & A. Field.

The E. & A. field has been rolled and scrapped and will be in fine shape for the opening of the baseball league season on May 12th.

Sylvan Heights Course Now Open

Entire Course Is Now Ready For Play, Manager Smith Announced Today

With the fairways and greens in the best condition they have been since the course was established, Sylvan Heights, New Castle's municipal course, is now ready for play on the entire 18 holes, Manager and pro, Captain V. Arthur Smith, announced today.

The last nine holes of the course, which are on higher ground than the first nine, have been available for play for the past ten days, but it was impossible to get onto the first nine until early this week because of the soggy condition of the ground. The warm sun and winds have done wonders in the past few days, however, and the whole course is now ready for play.

The greens were seeded last fall and with growing conditions perfect, because of the heavy snows which blanketed the ground during the winter, a wonderful thick turf has resulted.

Quite a number of golfers were out on the course last Saturday and Sunday, and if the weather over the coming week-end is favorable, the course should be crowded.

Lincoln Tigers Lead Volley Ball

The roster of the Lincoln Tigers is as follows: Tippy Richards, Nickie Gennock, Gabby DeCaprio, Tex Richards, Lee Giardo, Louie Colello, Pete Zingaro, Sammy Bullano and Frank Copple. The Marcellas are tied with the Wabash Bears for third place and the Catholics are last place. Tonight the Catholics will meet the Mahoning A. A. and the Lincolns and Marcellas will tangle. The first game is at 6:30 o'clock.

Church Bowling Banquet Planned

A banquet for the Church Duckpin league will be held at the First Christian church at a later date, it was announced by the president today. The various managers of the teams in the league are asked to notify Mr. Walther of the number of men that will attend the banquet.

The St. Vitus team won the church duckpin league championship this year by defeating the First Christians. By next Monday it is hoped that a definite check of the number of men who will attend the banquet can be made.

Awards will be given the championship St. Vitus team at the banquet.

Softball League Schedule Ready To Be Adopted

Softball League Managers Will Meet Tonight At "Y" At 7:30 O'clock

Tonight at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 o'clock managers of the various teams in the City Softball league will have a meeting for the adoption of a schedule that has been drawn up by the president of the league.

The meeting is for managers only. No outsiders or players will be allowed in the meeting. This is made necessary owing to the confusion of the former meetings.

All those who would like to umpire for the softball league this year are asked to attend the meeting at the "Y" tonight and discuss with the softball heads the various rules and regulations.

The City softball league is due to kickoff on Monday night May 11th with three games on the program. There are six fast teams in the circuit.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

One hundred and forty cans of trout were placed in Lawrence county streams during the week by members of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association according to officials of the association. Trout fishing up to the last few days was not very good but reports from some fishermen say they have been catching a few recently.

The Boston Bees have traded Arthur Whitney a third baseman to the Phillies for Mike Haslin, infielder. Secretary John Quinn of the Bees stated that no cash was involved in the deal. Whitney came to Boston from Philadelphia along with Outfielder Hal Lee in 1932. He hit at a 2.272 clip and his fielding average was .962 last season. Haslin is six years younger than Whitney and can play third, second or shortstop.

Washington high school made a game rally in the closing events on the program and won over Georges township high in a dual meet 88 to 96, at Washington. Washington won the mile relay, the closing event, which proved very exciting.

SOFTBALL GAMES DESIRED

The Northside A. C. of Ellwood City would like to arrange a softball game with any of the first-class league teams in New Castle. For games call Miller at 411 or Shaffer at 515, or write to Floyd Shaffer, 320 Orchard avenue, Ellwood City.

American Legion Junior Squad Will Be Cut On Saturday

Prospects For Winning Team Are Bright, Chairman Conn Announces

At the practice session called for Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock at George Washington field, the present squad of aspirants for the American Legion Junior team will be reduced to 25 players, Chairman A. L. Conn, representing the Perry S. Gaston Post announced today.

A hustling bunch of youngsters has been out trying for the team this year, and indications point to the fact that a much stronger team will represent the post this year than last.

The outfield is shaping up well, and the pitching and catching departments are fairly strong. The infield positions are uncertain, however, and with a large number of boys trying for the various positions, a strong combination should be picked.

The George Washington field will be used for play this summer. Through the co-operation of Superintendent of Schools Dr. C. C. Green, and members of the school board, the field is being fixed up and bleachers and a backstop will be erected.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Randomusing: Well, I should be ashamed, but I went to the Statue of Liberty the other afternoon for the first time. . . . And almost up to the top. . . . That little winding stairway, with a waist-high rail and a sheer drop down the middle, for the final twelve tiers, was too much for a plump reporter—and too reminiscent of the elevator strike. . . . And by the way, if you're rubberneck-minded, there's no place pleasanter than the Bronx Zoo on a spring afternoon, with a bag of peanuts and a nickel for a pink lemonade. . . . I hear the menagerie houses are a favorite relaxation spot for Billy Rose, who loves circuses better than anything—and brings them to Broadway. . . .

* * *

Much indignation now among dog-lovers over the stolen-dog racket. . . . The animals are filched like automobiles and "reconditioned," usually with a fake pedigree, in crooked pet shops. . . . Scotties are easiest to trace and identify, and word comes of a scheme to "pawprint" the pets for more certain identification. . . . The greatest cross city men have to bear is the inconvenience of owning a dog; apartment-bred beasts have always seemed to me a bit sissified and most of the folk who talk about going to the commuting zones to live "because of the fresh air' are in reality thinking how nice it will be to own a few canines. . . .

* * *

Every time I journey to the theater to celebrate the innovation of some pristine play and in the course of my travels pass the Forrest Theater where "Tobacco Road" is still playing, I heave a sigh. . . . A sigh for the dubious nature of show business and the impotence of critics. . . . "Tobacco Road" got as faint a batch of huzzahs as ever greeted a Broadway hit. . . . For months, too, it wasn't a hit—after an inauspicious opening back in December, 1933. . . . There were paydays when only the optimism of Mr. Sam "I Told You So" Grisman, the producer, kept the curtain ringing up and down until another payday. . . . "Tobacco Road," with 1,000 performances, is the third longest-lived dramatic production ever to grace the Broadway boards. . . . "Abie's Irish Rose," as everybody knows, was the marathon champion of all time, with more than 2,500 performances. . . . "Lightnin'" was No. 2. . . . It is perhaps symptomatic of something or other that not a single one of the great box-office attractions ever got unqualified rave notices from all the critics—and that goes for all the long-run presentations from "The Bat" through "Seventh Heaven" (which probably got the best notices of any of the huge grossers) through "East is West" and "The First Year." . . . Even "Rain" had some qualified critiques upon its opening. . . .

* * *

Grace Moore appears to have lost nothing by her trafficking with Hollywood. . . . Recently when she warbled here in "La Boheme" to the crystalline top-hatters of the opery, she had them in the aisles. . . . And veteran opera-goers told me that her reception was pretty cool on first entrance; the dress circle had heard a lot of whoa-ho-ho about film stardom and wanted to make sure that their Gracie could still toss the notes around in the approved operatic tradition. . . . She could and later when she exited into Fortieth Street and her limousine the fans gathered round and she tossed them nosegays. . . . It was very pretty, all-in-all, and should encourage other divas to sign those $5,000-per-week movie contracts they've been hesitating about.

Stock Market Turns Erratic

Small Buying And Selling Waves Occur During Day's Trading

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 1.—The stock market turned erratic today, with small buying and selling waves following each other in rapid succession.

There was a moderate amount of selling in the steel shares, despite a plethora of bullish business signs, U. S. Steel losing more than a point at one time and Bethlehem drifting lower after a first-hour fractional gain.

The motor department ignored a further increase in automobile production this week, Chrysler losing a large fraction and General Motors having a mall gain converted into a loss on the day. Auburn held most of a point runup.

A few issues showed wide price changes. American Telephone slumped more than three points, while Douglas Aircraft was carried down almost as much in a fairly heavy turnover, on the other side of the picture Allied Chemical spurted three points, Johns-Manville two and American Smelting almost two.

In farm equipments, Oliver set a new 1936 peak above 50 on a runup of more than two points, while Case and Deere gained as much.

Rails were little changed. Oils and utilities were steady.

Bonds moved generally higher. Grains and cotton were off.

Officers Report At Headquarters

Offices have been reporting on and off duty on their beats for some time.
